NAZIS LAUNCH DRIVE

Concentrate Offensive In Terrific Onslaught Near Moscow.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — The Moscow radio declared today that the Russian army had rewon 4,000 square miles of territory on the Rostov-Donets basin front where "hundreds" of villages were said to have been wrested from the Germans

The broadcast said Russian troops driving west into the Donets basin and along the shore of the Gulf of Azov west of Rostov reached the Miuss river "where the Germans are trying to form a new front."

Beaten back relentlessly on the southern front, the Germans have concentrated their offensive power on a terrific new onslaught northeast of Moscow, slashing through Solnetschnogorski sector toward Dmitrov, 40 miles directly north of the capital on the secondary rail line to Leningrad.

Russian dispatches indicated that the new break-through was made just south of Klin. They declared that two villages south of Volkolomask, 65 miles northwest of Moscow, also fell to the reinforced Nazi onslaught and said the Germans made other lesser gains in a head-on assault toward the capital from the west.

Landon Says Administration Seeks One-Party System.

TOPEKA, Kas.—(INS)—Alfred M. Landon, 1936 Republican presidential candidate, today maintained that the administration in its emergency policies is moving toward a one-party system.

In an address before the young Republicans of Kansas, the former Kansas governor last night charged the administration with controlling the radio and with extending efforts towards governing the press. He said:

"The administration controls the radio If it can make the people of the country lose confidence in the press, and eliminate any real worthwhile minority party, then we will have a one-party system and the machinery to perpetuate it."

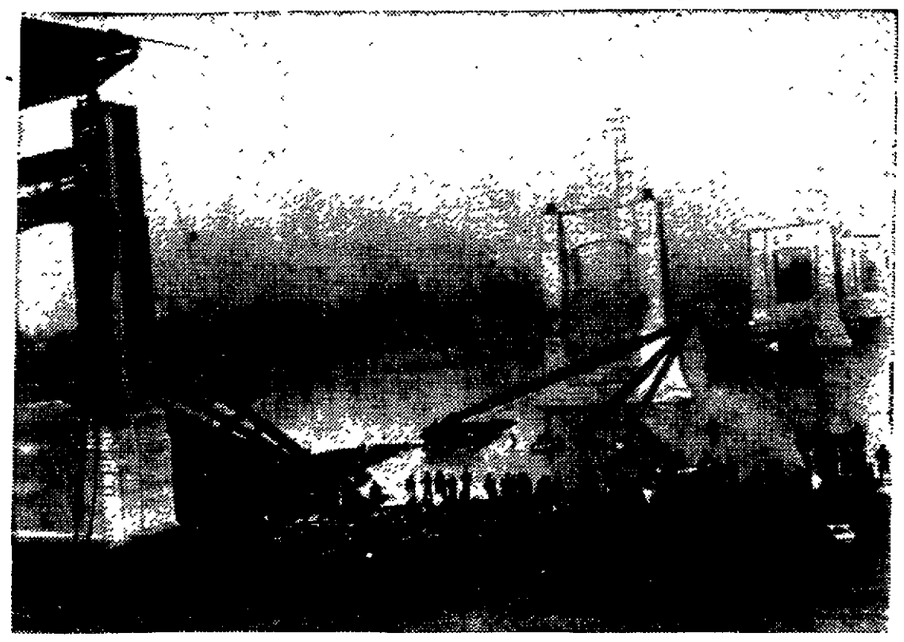
Total of Mortgages On Ohio Homes Up $5,000,000.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Reflecting the boom in the building of residential construction, a total of 13,394 mortgages, totaling $41,929,000, were recorded on Ohio homes during October, the Federal Home Loan Bank board reported today.

In October, 1940, there were 12,361 Ohio home mortgages totaling $36,941,000.

Six Workers Die In Hartford Bridge Collapse



A buckled girder on this bridge being constructed across the Connecticut river at Hartford, Conn., plunged approximately 30 workmen into the river 30 feet below, killing at least six and seriously injuring 16. Steel framework of the fallen section is seen protruding from the water. Engineers said that this is the first girder bridge of its size to be built in the U. S.

ASKS WAGNER ACT CHANGES

Senator Says Amendment Is Needed For Solution of Strike Problem.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., said today that there could be no satisfactory solution of the defense strike problem until the Wagner labor relations act is amended to make it "fair to both sides"

"I think all substantial benefits given to labor should be preserved, but the Wagner act is obviously one-sided," George said in an interview. "Management is forbidden to do several things under it which good management demands."

He indicated, however, that it might not be "feasible" to raise the question of amending the act at this time.

There are increasing indications that the senate will greatly modify the house-approved labor bill sponsored by Rep.

Buck Carries Weapon Away On His Antlers.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Up in Elk county of the Northwestern Pennsylvania big game country there's a deer carrying a gun. Deputy Sheriff John Slavin sheepishly told friends the gun was his.

Slavin fired at the handsome 12-point buck and it toppled over. Thinking it was dead, the hunter started to tie a tag on his prize. He stacked his gun on the animal's antlers to facilitate matters.

As though that was just what the wily buck was waiting for, it sprang up and fled—plus the gun.

FBI MOVES IN

Joins Probe of Cleveland Blast; Sabotage Hinted.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The possibility of sabotage in an explosion of 48 fuel gas cylinders which wrecked part of the Cleveland wire works plant of the General Electric company, today brought an investigation by FBI agents.

The explosion occurred about a minute before 400 men and women employes were to return to work from lunch yesterday. The blast caused nearly $12,000 damage, company officials said, tearing a six-foot hole in the rear of the main building and sending pieces of metal flying as far as a quarter of a mile.

Girders and framework of the building were twisted and all windows were blown out. Only one employe, Robert Keefer, was injured.

HEAT WAVE SETS RECORD FOR CITY

Indian Summer Sends Mercury Soaring To 65 But It May Snow Tomorrow.

Ohio's Indian summer, which has smashed heat records throughout the state, gave Mansfield a new record high temperature reading for December yesterday as the mercury climbed to 65 degrees, but forecasters today predicted an end to the spring-like weather with the arrival of colder weather tonight and possibly snow flurries tomorrow.

Yesterday's high mark of 65 degrees, was three degrees above the previous record set on Dec. 13, 1927, when the thermometer reached 62.

Low this morning was 50 degrees or 25 more than the 16-year average. At noon, the mercury had climbed to 56.

Only .06 inches of rain were recorded since yesterday but the weatherman promised scattered light showers for tonight.

Other cities also reported record highs as the mercury climaxed a nine-day flight into spring-like weather.

Cleveland had an all-time high of 69 degrees. The previous high was on Dec. 31, 1875, when the thermometer touched 68 degrees. Columbus, Akron, Youngstown, Toledo, Cincinnati and Dayton also reported new records.

Clark Announces Plant Will Start Calling Furloughed Workers Back In March.

AFTER MORE CONTRACTS

Vice President Says Work on Defense Orders To Be In Full Swing In May.

Plans to start re-hiring 1,000 furloughed workers for defense jobs at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant were announced today by B. W. Clark, vice president of the company.

Although Clark pointed out that production of defense materials will not be at a peak until next May, he said the work will be started early in the spring at a rate sufficient to provide jobs for a part of the workers who were furloughed when domestic production was curtailed Re-hiring will start in March, he said.

Company officials are negotiating for more defense contracts in an attempt to retain the plant's workers here with as little loss of time as possible, Clark explained.

Announcement of the company's plan to re-hire the workers who have been laid off since September gave the city a bright industrial outlook for spring.

Production of defense orders totaling more than $6,600,000 received exclusively by the Mansfield plant will be in full swing by next May, Clark said. The plant here also will share in the production of other defense contracts held by the Westinghouse merchandising division with the total aggregating more than $25,000,000 in government business.

CRASH KILLS 6

Four Soldiers Among Victims of Georgia Accident.

AMERICUS, Ga.—(AP)—Six persons were killed and 13 injured early today when a fast-moving automobile and a school bus home bound from a basketball game crashed head-on near Dawson.

Among the dead was 20-year-old Dorothy Casey who died at City hospital here soon after the wreck, one of the worst in the history of southwest Georgia.

State Highway Patrol Sergeant J. P. Smith said four of the dead were soldiers from Fort Benning, Ga., and named them as Ben L. Peel, Clifton H. Taylor, Adam Corner and E. N. McMullen.

The sixth victim was unidentified although it was believed he was a passenger on the Webster county school bus which had been to a Union high school basketball game near Camilla.

Columbus Plant Dedicated-- It Might Have Happened Here

By ROBERT E. ROGERS
(News-Journal Staff Writer)

COLUMBUS—Destined to play what high ranking officials of the U. S. Navy described as "an important part in a torrent of defense production larger than the world has ever seen or expected to see," a new $14,000,000 warplane factory, operated by the Curtiss-Wright corporation was dedicated here yesterday—a scene that might have taken place in Mansfield if the city had adequate airport facilities.

History of the 25-acre plant that was rushed to completion in 318 days shows that Curtiss-Wright officials, searching for an inland site for the manufacture of fighter ships for the Navy, selected Port Columbus because the municipally operated field had hard-surfaced runways and commercial airline facilities.

The company also operates factories in Buffalo, N. Y., and St. Louis, Mo.

Columbus, like Toledo, Akron, Youngstown, Cleveland and Middletown, among other Ohio cities, has profited by the addition of a

Keep Sharp Eye on Ohio Tax Fight

City officials were keeping in close contact with the state sales tax surplus question today as Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland refused to agree with Gov. John W. Bricker and asserted that the state can give further financial aid to local governments and still have enough money left to meet future state obligations.

Bricker yesterday told Lausche that he would not call a special session of the legislature to distribute funds from the Ohio treasury surplus to city and county governments.

Mansfield's city council has appointed a committee to convene with representatives of other Ohio municipalities in Columbus next Thursday to ask a share of the sales tax surplus, estimated to be from $11,000,000 to $20,000,000. Members of council have asserted that Mansfield's share, if obtained, should be devoted to making badly-needed improvements at the municipal airport.

Mayor Lausche contended that the state surplus for 1941 would be $20,000,000. The governor had estimated it at $10,500,000.

Lausche charged that the governor, "in order to make the excess in the state treasury look smaller than it really is, has subtracted a number of millions of dollars for expenditures due in 1942."

"If Governor Bricker followed this policy to its logical conclusion, he could even show a deficit for 1941 instead of a surplus," he said.

Fred Miller, chairman of city council's finance committee, who asked council to appoint a committee to attend the Columbus meeting, said yesterday that his committee would contact Lausche to see if the meeting would still be held.

"If any meeting is held on the tax question," said Miller, "we intend to do everything possible to obtain a share for Mansfield."

Mayor William J. Locke has dismissed the movement to obtain a share of the surplus as a "political move" against Bricker and announced that he does not intend to ask any share for Mansfield.

Lausche, in his answer to Bricker, outlined a brief program whereby the governor could aid local governmental units and also meet future state obligations.

"Governor Bricker writes me that he wants to use the surplus to pay the school debt and set up a reserve for a welfare and university building program,"

Spend 25 Minutes In Crucial Conference On Far East Crisis

Envoys Won't Reveal Reply on Armies In Indo-China, Say They Are Ready To Continue Talks; Roosevelt Withholds All Comment.

BULLETIN

TOKYO—(INS)—At the very moment Japan's reply to President Roosevelt's recent inquiries was being handed in at the White House, Japan today formally disclaimed any territorial ambitions in East Asia or elsewhere.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Japan's envoys took 25 minutes today to give the state department their government's reply to President Roosevelt's query as to why Japanese troops are massed in French Indo-China but withheld any public word as to what reply was.

Ambassador Kichisaburo Nomura, asked by reporters whether there would be further Japanese-American conferences, said that "as far as we are concerned we are always willing to talk—after all, we are a friendly nation."

Special Envoy Saburo Kurusu said merely that nothing definite had been decided, and declined to go into any details concerning the communication they gave Hull for the president.

The envoys did not, however, present a reply to Hull's note of Nov. 26 in which the secretary outlined the basic principles considered vital for a peaceful settlement of Pacific problems.

Kurusu, telling reporters that he "hoped the talks between the two countries would continue," refused to give any hint of the nature of the information requested by the president.

President Roosevelt disclosed at his press conference that he had consulted with Hull before the latter saw Japan's negotiators and that he had invited the secretary to report back to him at a luncheon engagement in the presidential office.

The chief executive had no comment whatever on the Japanese situation.

Concerning the movement of Japanese troops into French Indo-China—which the United States and British fear are the vanguard for an attack on Thailand—Kurusu said he believed the numbers reported had been "exaggerated."

TOKYO — Japan indicated through official sources today a desire to prolong peace negotiations with the United States and suggested that the "utterly impossible" position taken by Washington was due to "a big misunderstanding."

Many points of difference remain between the United States and Japan, the spokesman said, but progress has been made at Washington in clarifying various points and it is to be hoped that negotiations can continue toward seeking a "common formula" for a solution of the Pacific crisis.

ARGUE OUSTER

Investigators, Officials Heard In BUC Controversy.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The civil service commission gave Ohio officials and federal investigators an opportunity at a hearing today to present new arguments in a controversy over an ouster order against Harry J. Patterson, manager of the Cincinnati office of the state bureau of unemployment compensation.

The commission called the hearing when State Atty. Gen. Thomas J. Herbert demanded withdrawal of the order on the ground that it resulted from ambigious evidence.

The date fixed for Patterson's dismissal was advanced from Dec. 1 to 15 to permit a review of the evidence at today's hearing.

Considers Plan For Large Scale Diphtheria Exams

Disturbed by the increasing number of "diphtheria carriers" reported throughout Richland county, Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, today made plans for a county-wide examination system to curb any further spread of the disease.

Dr. Wild stated that although the number of actual cases has been held at 18 for the past week that several new carriers, persons carrying the diphtheria germ but unaffected by it, had been discovered.

The health commissioner said that approximately 50 carriers had been found since the beginning of November and that it was a difficult task to check them because they are spread throughout the county.

Dr. Wild visited several township school officials in the southern part of the county today in an attempt to set up some cooperative system for the reporting and testing of carrier suspects.

Carriers are quarantined until two negative throat cultures are reported in succession. Control in the city is being carried on much easier than in the county because of the constant health supervision in city schools, the commissioner said.

Tanker Crew Lauded for Its Game Fight Against U-Boat

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The officers and crew of the 16,000-ton naval tanker Salinas today received warm commendation for courage, efficiency and seamanship in a navy report revealing that they had shelled and damaged one of three German submarines during an attack on Oct. 30.

The congratulations were made by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, to the men who brought their ship to an undisclosed American port after being torpedoed and seriously damaged. Stark said their work was "in keeping with the highest tradition of the navy."

The navy's report of the Salinas incident was the first official announcement that an Axis submarine had been damaged by an American naval vessel. It previously has been the policy of the navy not to reveal such attacks.

The Salinas, while in a convoy 700 miles off Newfoundland en route to the United States, was attacked by three submarines within four hours, the report said. The tanker was hit by more than one of five torpedoes fired at her, but limped to port with no dead and no seriously injured, it said.

JAPS ANSWER FDR; SILENT ON HULL NOTE

Envoys Spend 25 Minutes In Crucial Conference on Far East Situation.

place the number at 100,000, with many more thousands on board transports lying off the Indo-China coast.

Virtually the last hopes of an acceptable reply disappeared yesterday when the authoritative Japanese news agency Domei, forecasting a rejection of the Hull note, asserted that the American declaration of "obsolete" principles could not serve as a basis for continued negotiations.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull have made it clear that continuance of the discussions aimed at achieving a peaceful settlement depended on a Japanese answer which provided some basis for an agreement on the fundamental principles of non-aggression, treaty observance, and equality of trade opportunities to all nations.

If the Japanese answer rejects these basic principles, the discussions, which began last May, were expected to end, leaving the next move up to Japan.

Whether the Japanese government, abandoning hope for economic and other concessions from the United States, launches the long-feared invasion of Thailand remains a question to be answered in Tokyo.

President Roosevelt requested Tokyo on Tuesday for an explanation of Japan's purposes when, despite the "peace talks" in progress here, strong contingents of Japanese troops were being moved into Inde-China.

The president's request was made while the Japanese government was still considering the Nov. 26 note in which Secretary Hull set forth the attitude of the United States.

(The note, which is expected to be made public in the immediate future, outlined basic principles of non-aggression, treaty observance, and equality of trade—together with suggestions for their application in amicably settling far eastern problems.)

Domei, the Japanese news agency, said flatly that "Japan cannot accept" the Hull formula.

Quoting unofficial observers described as thoroughly reliable, Domei stated:

"Such a document cannot serve as a basic datum in Japanese-American negotiations henceforth.

"Japanese-American conversations have taken place twice since the United States handed over to Japan the document in question, and the United States government has sent the Japanese inquiries pertaining to certain questions.

"But there is no tangible evidence of progress of the negotiations."

Since the news agency has close connections with the government, Domei's statement was looked on as an accurate forecast of the position Japan would take in replying to the United States.

Domei further quoted observers as charging that 'unilateral disclosure by Secretary Hull of details of the negotiations has made the situation still graver."

"Hull's exposure,' the statement said, "creates doubt whether the United States is earnestly willing to reach an agreement through the current negotiations, especially in view of the fact it was made when the situation was most delicate, with no satisfactory conclusion having been arrived at, despite the presence in Washington of Saburo Kurusu for 17 long days."

(The meaning of this passage was not clear in Washington for Hull has steadfastly refused to discuss the details of the negotiations in progress.)

Domei quoted the observers as saying that the Hull statement, which was not printed in Tokyo indicated that "optimism is not permitted."

The United States was described as "still scheming to impose on Japan the provisions of old obsolete principles which are incompatible with even the actual far eastern conditions of bygone days."

Japanese armed forces occupied Indo-China after Nazi pressure had forced the defeated French to agree to "joint defense" of the colony. Japan subsequently disregarded a treaty pledge to recognize French sovereignty, and established a virtual economic monopoly in the colony.

By such action it was pointed out, the Japanes acted in direct opposition to the American-sponsored principles of non-aggression treaty observance and equality of trade opportunities to all nations.

As for the large-scale troop concentrations which could carry an invasion threat to Thailand, the Japanese press has charged that Japan is acting only to protect her own interests because British forces in British Burma and Malaya have taken up positions along the Thai border and because the American, British, Chinese and Dutch powers threaten Japan with "encirclement."

The Japanese press and spokesmen have also hinted that the strong reinforcements were required to "police" the colony.

The president, anticipating that answer, has made it clear the alleged policing of a peaceful colony which has been ruled by a handful of French would not be accepted as a legitimate answer.

LOANS GRANTED

COLUMBUS — (INS) — The five major natural gas companies doing business in Ohio today appealed to the state utilities commission to rescind its ruling of July 31 ordering them to cease furnishing "stabilized" or mixed gas for natural gas.

The commission, which forbade the sale of such gas to all Ohio consumers with whom companies do not have a stabilized gas contract, fixed Jan. 5 for a hearing.

The companies appealing were the Ohio Fuel Gas company of Columbus; the Dayton Power and Light company; the Northwestern Natural Gas company of Toledo; and the Manufacturer's Light and Heat company and the Natural Gas company of West Virginia, both with main offices at Pittsburgh.

of finding some formula to make the Pacific more peaceful," the spokesman said.

The spokesman's attitude contrasted to charges against the United States and Britain in the Tokyo press. The Domei news agency previously had said that the American terms for continuing negotiations were "utterly impossible" but left open the hope for some further negotiations.

Tomokazu Hori the official spokesman, took a much more hopeful attitude toward continuation of the negotiations than had been suggested in the last few days.

"Assuming that press reports are correct regarding Secretary of State Cordell Hull's statement (denouncing Japanese rule by force) we are amazed to find such a big misunderstanding by the United States," Hori said.

"The Hull statement seems to allege that we are following a policy of force and conquest and establishing a military despotism."

Japan will follow the policy laid down by former Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye, who four years ago issued a declaration that Japan had no territorial ambitions in China, the spokesman continued. The Konoye statement disclaimed any Japanese intention of demanding indemnity from China.

Hori suggested that the China situation was the real difficulty in the Washington negotiations.

(In Shanghai, a Japanese military spokesman said today that the Japanese army "is now so strong that it is able to launch a campaign in any direction without withdrawing forces from the China front. I believe it will be impossible for British and American mechanized units to operate in China.")

Hori said that Japanese troops in French Indo-China do not exceed treaty limits.

French Sum Up Their Policy as 'Peace'

VICHY—(INS)—Official French quarters declared today that the government's policy with regard to French Indo-China, strategic Far Eastern colony, can be summed up in two words, "Peace" and "neutrality."

They added that existing agreements between France and Japan call only for French defense of Indo-China and added that "nobody believes Indo-China will be the victim of aggression."

Warns Japs Against Aggressive Moves

BRISTOL, Eng.—(INS)—Warning Japan that "aggression will not pay," A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, declared in a speech today that a Japanese military move may be imminent.

"I had hoped," he said, "that wiser counsels in Japan would prevail over those appearing to lead her people into a new war. The threat has not abated and aggression may be imminent."

HOLDS COMMENT

FDR Won't Discuss Report of Plans For AEF.

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Roosevelt declined to make any comment at his press conference today on yesterday's publication by the Chicago Tribune and other newspapers of a purported United States war plan contemplating an A. E. F. of 5,000,000 men in 1943 to bring about the defeat of Hitler.

Mr Roosevelt said he believed Secretary of War Stimson will have something to say about the matter later in the day. Personally, he offered no comment.

Investigations already are under way in all of the affected government departments to ascertain the individual who made the purported secret war plan available to the Chicago Tribune.

is expected to absorb most of the former Westinghouse employes who were laid off because of curtailed domestic production, Clark said the plant here faces a further possible curtailment before rehiring starts in the spring.

The Westinghouse plant in Mansfield already holds four major defense orders, one of them for $3,173,000 in binoculars for the government. Production of the defense materials cannot be started, however, until necessary equipment changes have been made and new machinery installed.

"Our effort, since last spring, has been to solicit defense orders on a basis that would enable the workers released by curtailment of regular products to be absorbed in defense work without loss of time," Clark said. "This goal has not been reached in the Mansfield plant, but excellent progress has been made.

"We face a further possible curtailment before rehiring starts but re-hiring for the defense jobs now on hand will start in March. Meanwhile former warehouse space is being converted into specially designed factories for the new products and special machines are on order for their equipment. By May, production on the orders now on hand will be in full swing.

"Meanwhile more defense orders are being negotiated; work has been brought to Mansfield from other Westinghouse plants; training schools are in progress looking to the transfer of workers to Canton and Louisville naval ordnance plants operated by Westinghouse. Many more workers will be absorbed in these activities.

An order for further curtailment of domestic production today hit the Tappan Stove company plant in Mansfield, but it was not expected to result in a major slash in production.

Stove production will be limited within a few days to about the level attained in the period from 1935-39, Henry A. Dinegar, chief of the OPM cooking stove, refrigeration, and air conditioning unit.

The Tappan company yesterday announced the distribution of $121,000 to its 850 employes in additional pay, free Christmas turkeys, and a week's vacation with pay between Christmas and New Year.

strong counter attacks, the Red army was reported to have checked the Germans after the first forward surge. In the Tula salient the Russian position was described as improved by other Soviet counter strokes which the Russians said wrested back some territory the Germans had gained in an earlier attempt to flank Moscow to the southeast.

A Moscow radio broadcast quoted Pravda as saying Russian counter attacks were "developing successfully" in the Klin, Volokolamsk and Tula directions and that the situation in the Soviet northern (Leningrad) setor was generally improved.

German forces striking over a 200-mile arc from Volokolamsk to Tula were reported in dispatches from Kuibyshev, however, to be receiving fresh reserves and tanks.

(A British broadcast heard in New York by NBC said "frozen German sentries are a good proof of just where the German plans became frustrated" in the effort to complete the encirclement of Leningrad by a drive north from Tikhivin.)

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko, dispatches to London said, has broadened the southern operations to a 70-mile front and driven twin spearheads westward in an attempt to hem up the fleeing army of Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist.

The Tula situation remained grave from the Russian viewpoint. The direction of the German attack against that arms center 100 miles below Moscow indicated the invaders had succeeded in piercing Stalinogorsk sector defenses to the east for encirclement operations.

Britain Warns Three Nations On Limit

LONDON —(INS)— Great Britain warned this afternoon that a time limit set in notes to Finland, Hungary and Rumania is rapidly nearing but at the same time granted several more days of grace before a formal declaration of war against the three Nazi-allied countries.

The formal British warning came in the form of an official statement, setting the deadline for reply at midnight tonight. However, through announcement that consultation with her dominions and allies would follow non-receipt of replies when the deadline has passed, Britain made it virtually certain that no belligerent action would be taken until the week-end at least.

The British announcement came as the latest step of this government to sever the military ties binding Finland, Hungary and Rumania to the might of Nazi Germany in their war against Russia.

Nazis Say Finns Reply to British

BERLIN — (INS) — Authentic German quarters declared today that Finland, Hungary and Rumania have replied to what were described as "certain British ultimative demands."

(Editor's Note: These "ultimative demands" referred to the British warnings to Finland, Hungary and Rumania to cease hostilities against Soviet Russia.)

German quarters declared nothing is known in Berlin regarding the contents of the three replies. But it was stated that each of the three nations replied "in accordance with their vital interests."

British Mop Up On Libya Battlefields

BULLETIN

LONDON —(INS)— German troops have retaken the Libyan Port of Gambut, it was announced today. Gambut is on the Mediterranean coast, midway between Bardia and Tobruk.

LONDON—(INS)—British military authorities said today that Imperial forces are ranging through the battlefields of Libya, mopping up disabled enemy tank units and "generally leaving everything tidy for the next round."

As far as the main battle is concerned, it was stated, the recent lull still is believed to be in effect, although there were indications of resumption of major hostilities in the near future.

Military authorities in London said the British still hold Capuzzo in Libya and dominate the town of Sollum in northwestern Egypt near the Libyan frontier.

A report that the British had withdrawn to a line running from El Gobi to Sidi Omar was denied.

Italians Shell Tobruk Fortress

ROME—(INS)—Intense Italian artillery fire against British fortifications on the Tobruk front in Libya was announced by the Fascist high command today.

A Rome war communique said that British naval units shelled the Libyan coast west of Tobruk and that artillery duels continued on the Sollum front in northwestern Egypt.

counts and the corporation he heads was found guilty on five counts. He will be sentenced Dec. 15 and faces a possible maximum prison term of 60 years and fines of $12,000.

Federal witnesses testified that Flumiani sought unknown authors who wished to have their works published, charged them two or three times the regular publishing cost, and made no serious attempts to have the books published.

Contra sent four or five of his manuscripts to the New York publishing house almost two years ago and agreed to pay installments to have one of them published.

Contra was to receive 400 copies of the book and a share in all royalties collected in further sales of the book. The Fortuny's company was to exploit the book by advertisements and sales work.

After the book failed to appear as scheduled last spring, Contra, who had already paid in $275 began to make inquiries. The publisher refused to release Contra from the contract but after he had been informed that the company was to be prosecuted, he suspended installment payments.

Contra has been writing since he graduated from Mansfield Senior high school six years ago. He was one of the many employes furloughed by Westinghouse recently because of priority restrictions on range and refrigerator production.

Senator Says Amendment Is Needed For Solution of Strike Problem.

Howard W. Smith, D., Va. The measure, one of the most drastic before congress, was referred to the senate labor committee, several members of which have said they believed it was "too drastic."

It was denounced by AFL President William Green as America's "first move toward totalitarianism."

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D., Va., said he had written Chairman Elbert D. Thomas, D., Utah, of the labor committee, requesting immediate consideration of the Smith bill. Thomas is out of town and determination of committee procedure will be held up until his return.

The Smith bill would postpone effective strike action in defense plants for a period of from 30 to 90 days following notification by a union and would call for a government-supervised secret ballot of all workers on strike votes. Organization and jurisdictional strikes would be banned.

Unions would be required to register their membership and financial statements with the government and could not be represented by an official who was subversive or had a criminal record. Mediation machinery would be required in defense labor controversies.

DEDICATE PLANT FOR PRODUCTION OF WARPLANES

Columbus Scene of Festivity That Might Have Happened In Mansfield.

new industry attracted solely by their airport facilities.

All have developed airports within recent years—projects that has placed the communities on the air map of the world.

Termed "a breeding nest of the world's best dive bombers," the new Curtiss-Wright plant is already employing 3,500 Columbus workers. Peak production — a guarded secret—is expected to be reached next fall, officials say, when the factory will employ approximately 13,000 workers. The weekly payroll will then total about $500,000.

Dedication ceremonies were witnessed by 3,700 persons who gathered in the final inspection bay under the shadows of the first fledgling of the Columbus plant, the Sea Gull, officially known as the SO3C-1. With it was the famed Curtiss "Helldiver" dive bomber, which will go into production early next spring.

The public was barred from the dedication, but 1,000 invited guests joined approximately 2,700 workers to hear the numerous dedicatory speeches by government and company officials.

Among them were Rear Admiral John H Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics who declared:

"May those who are doing their utmost to overturn the civilization of this world rue the day we gathered here to dedicate this breeding place of the world's best dive bombers."

He was followed by Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of navy for air, who asserted that America's vast arming program "is the answer to critics that we have done too little, too late."

"Our stream of production will become a large torrent such as the world has never seen or expected to see. In that large torrent of production we know that this plant and its men will play their part," he declared.

Other speakers included President Guy W. Vaughn of Curtiss-Wright; Burdette S. Wright, vice president and general manager of the airplane division; Charles W. Loosvice, president in charge of lands and properties; M. C. Meigs, chief of OPM's aircraft division; Thomas C. Wilson, president of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce; Col. Philip Schneeberger, head of the industrial planning section, U. S army; Major Floyd F Green of Columbus, and General Manager J. A. Williams, who acted as master of ceremonies.

Occupying the center of stage during the ceremonies was nine year-old Marilyn Knapp, daughter of a lathe operator in the factory who swung a bottle of champagne over the nose of the blue and drab colored Seagull to officially christen the ship.

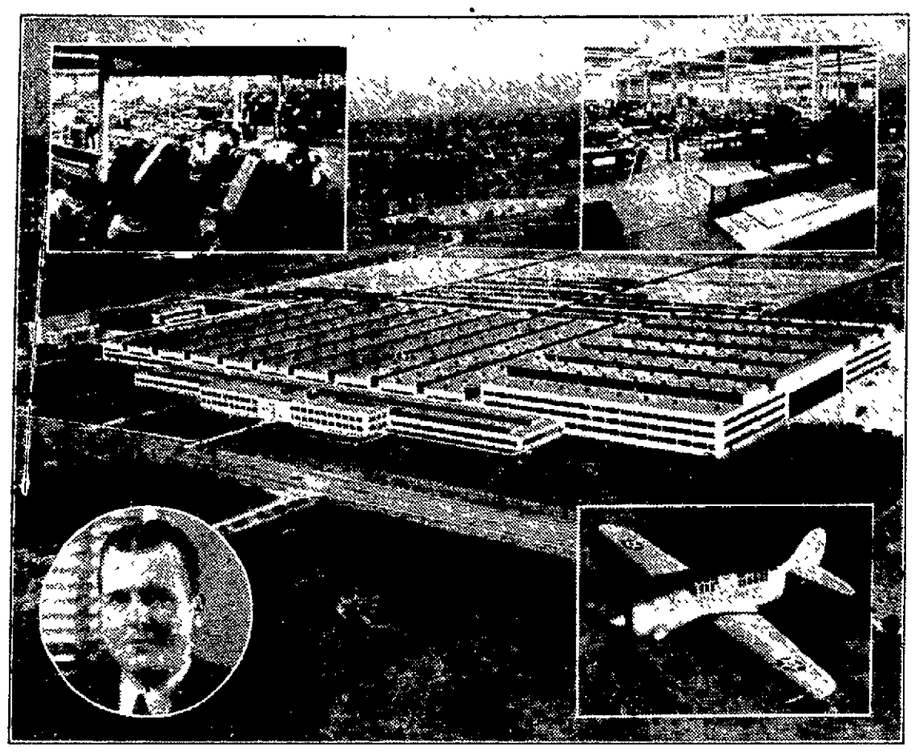
Marilyn in a pink dress and her pigtails tied with white ribbons, in a tiny voice said:

"I christen thee Seagull No. 1."

The Seagulls to be turned out at the plant here are said by "eyes and ears of the Navy," being sent aloft from cruisers and battleships by catapault for scouting and observation.

The larger and more formidable Helldiver, which will carry a crew of two and will be used for bombing submarines and enemy craft is carried aboard the heavier aircraft carriers

Here's New Warplane Plant at Columbus



This scene might have been in Mansfield had the city airport facilities such as Columbus. Shown in the center is an air view of the new $14,000,000 warplane plant at Port Columbus, dedicated yesterday by high ranking government officials. Total area of the grounds and buildings is 100 acres. The factory will eventually employ 13,000 workers and will have a weekly payroll of $500,000. Inset left is J. A. Williams, general manager of the plant, who acted as master of ceremonies at yesterday's dedication. Lower right is the SB2C-1, or "Helldiver" dive bomber which will go into production next spring. Top insets show interiors of the plant and the men at work.

KEEP EYE ON TAX SQUABBLE

Mansfield City Officials Are Ready To Back Up New Demands For Split.

Lausche said. "I would like to point out that he can do both these things and still return a substantial sum to the cities, towns and counties of Ohio. He could for instance:

"Retire the $6,000,000 school deficit assumed by the state.

"Return $8 000,000 to local governments to keep down local real estate taxes.

"Set up a reserve fund of $10,000,000 for a post-war welfare and university construction program."

Lausche said that the state had already appropriated $7,000,000 for state building, "but due to defense priorities and high costs, construction cannot be carried out at this time. If $2,500,000 from the surplus were added to the $7,500,000 appropriation, the state would then have a reserve fund of $10,000,000 to carry out its building plans when the time is ripe."

LONG ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Life-Long Richland County Resident Claimed By Death In Shelby.

SHELBY—Albert Keller, 92, of 11 Myers avenue, died Thursday night at the home after lingering illness of the past two years.

Born in Richland county on Sept. 11, 1849, Keller had lived almost all of his life in this vicinity. He was a member of United Brethren church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Wilda McVay of Toledo, Miss Emmaline Keller at home and Mrs. Margaret Nogle of Mansfield; three sons, Edward, William and Lee, all of Mansfield; one sister, Mrs. Mary Gossard of Cleveland; also 15 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday from the Dye funeral home with Rev. J. C. Searle, pastor of United Brethren church, officiating. Burial will be made in Oakland cemetery.

Moving To Curb Defense Strikes

PUBLIC resentment caused by the many strikes that have retarded defense production in a time of national peril is undoubtedly reflected in the severity of strike control legislation provided for in the measure which the house passed by a 252-136 vote.

While the house appeared to act hurriedly and went considerably further than the administration advised, the subject matter in this bill at least serves to present a vast amount of material for senate and public consideration and provides the groundwork for legislation that should bring vast improvement in conditions which have been a serious threat to the national defense program.

Even in its present form the bill compliments organized labor by placing upon unions requirements and responsibilities similar to those that have long rested on other organizations in which the public interest is involved.

Requirement for registration, for instance, with records of officers, finances, membership and dues to be filed with the National Labor Relations Board, is no more than is asked of other groups entrusted with handling large sums of money.

Jurisdictional strikes in defense industries are banned, as well as "sympathy" strikes designed to influence the outcome of a strike in a defense industry—and this restriction would seem worthy of general application instead of being confined to defense activities.

Provision of a waiting period of 30 days after notification of strike intention, and for a "cooling off" interval up to 60 days for mediation processes, also seems worthy of serious consideration in arriving at a final form of legislation, as it is such a plan that has been effective in preventing railroad strikes under a special act designed for this purpose.

Requirement for a secret ballot, outlawing violence and intimidation, limiting pickets to employes of struck plant, and denying benefits of the labor relations act to unions "knowingly having officers who are members of subversive organizations", are some of the other provisions of the bill as passed by the house.

More deliberate action is expected in the senate, but it may be hoped that, without too long delay, senate and house will agree on a measure that will also merit approval by President Roosevelt and pave the way for orderly progress of organized labor toward its legitimate objectives.

Farm Show Amazes City People

THAT GREAT livestock show in Chicago, which opened with a record attendance of more than 100,000 people, presented a fine array of cattle, horses, swine and sheep. But that wasn't all. The Chicago-News described another interesting feature:

"Curious, wide-eyed city folk admired and handled the cattle waiting to enter the arena while apple-cheeked young showmen from the farms of America good-naturedly smiled back."

Wide-eyed country folk are supposed to come to the city and be entranced by big buildings, swiftly moving traffic, bright lights, and all the rest. That's what they used to do, on rare occasions. But today good roads and automobiles enable farmers to get to town easily for business or pleasure, and the movies nearer home have introduced them to the wonders of the city so frequently that they now take them quite calmly, and prefer the country.

No mere movie, however, can do justice to purebred livestock, groomed to a high state of beauty and paraded before expert judges. The country people are producing such stock more and more these days, and it is left for city people, who never raise any animals but pet cats and dogs, to attend the shows with awe and admiration.

Those Neglected Little Factories

THE WEAKEST SPOT in national defense operations has been the failure to spread work uniformly through the productive system. Big business has big contracts and is doing very well with them, but little business hasn't had a fair chance. So the big factories are humming and the little factories, in large numbers, are idle or working at less than capacity.

This situation keeps a lot of people out of work when they should be working and slows down the whole system. As a defense problem and as a human problem, it is essential to get all our productive capacity busy and keep it busy, in the little factories and the little towns just as much as in the big factories and the big towns.

The president knows this, William Knudsen knows it, and Floyd Odlum in the contracts division of OPM knows it, but still the matter is snarled up with red tape in Washington. The whole productive system of the country must work as one team, but the job seems to be too big for the people in Washington to handle efficiently.

Hoarding the World's Gold

A BUSINESS WRITER brings up again the question of gold, rather ignored lately with so many other things going on. There is now about $23,000,000,000 of gold laid away in those underground vaults in Kentucky, and elsewhere around the country. Canadian gold mines are adding nearly half a billion dollars a year to this hoard. Hundreds of millions continue to drift in from other sources. And the old question arises, "What's the good of it?".

He thinks we might better pay those Canadian miners to dig copper and other metals more useful than gold. But it is hard to drop the habits and illusions of 5,000 years.

Evidently the United States government is taking a big chance in gathering and hoarding all that yellow metal.

Out in the Southwest an 11-year-old golfer made a hole-in-one with a 120-yard drive—leaving him nothing to look forward to.

Where do all of those off-color stories come from? Nobody ever rises from the gutter to admit having originated one of them.

Bitterness Doesn't Pay

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

BITTERNESS is a delightful diversion. There are endless possibilities in this form of indoor sport.

You can coddle yourself deliciously as you think what a Dirty Deal you've received . . . weep gallons of tears over your sufferings . . . load yourself down with medals for your courage and patience.

You can also, in bitterness, find the perfect excuse for any personal shortcomings. Why should you, laboring under such a Frightful Wrong, be expected to keep your normal behavior up to scratch? No, indeed—after a Blow Like This anyone should be forgiven for missing a trick or two. Or maybe pulling a few Mean Ones. After all, you're not a saint. And no one can blame you if you try to get a little teeny-weeny-bitty even.

Bitterness not only provides an alibi for cussedness, but offers the world's most perfect escape for cowardice. You are obviously a Crippled Soul. Stabbed to the very heart by foulest treachery. Then it's both absurd and unfair to demand that you act as if nothing had happened. It can't be done. Broken Hearted People simply can't behave like happy ones. And as for facing a lot of new unpleasantness—doing tiresome or risky things—it's brutal to even suggest it!

And this isn't the half. Bitterness will provide you with that spotlight you have long craved. You've always felt that your life was colorless, monotonous—unworthy of a person of your potential talents. But here at last is an occasion worthy of your metal.

Here is really one of the Foulest Acts in history—an act which puts you in the running with the greatest martyrs. Yes; maybe other folks are too stupid or selfish to realize this fact, but you're not. You can spend hours and hours comparing yourself to Mary, Queen of Scots, or maybe Greta Garbo in "Anna Karenina." Your life, too, has been ruined just as hers was . . . your hopes crushed.

In short, there is hardly any form of self-indulgence or self-gratification which cannot be obobtained by Bitterness. And without costing a cent! Just get a grudge and proceed to let it go the limit, and see what a swell time you have!

This, of course, is the reason why self-pity is by all odds the favorite feminine fancy work. And even highly rated by many pouty papas. This is also the reason why it's practically impossible to separate the average human from his grouch.

In your inexperience you may childishly believe that any normal person would prefer happiness to unhappiness. But your guess is 100 per cent wrong. For a really cowardly, cussed, conceited creature, there is no pastime comparable with a peeve.

Yet in spite of that, Bitterness doesn't pay. Even considered from the purely selfish standpoint, Bitterness is a bad bargain. For no matter how much you may gain thereby, you lose far more. And the harm you inflict upon yourself far surpasses the original injury.

While you coddle yourself, the busy world goes by. And sooner or later you will awaken to the fact that it has gone by. Not a nice awakening . . . to crawl out of your ancient grudge like some doddering old Rip Van Winkle, look around for a sympathetic audience and find them all busy with their own affairs!

Don't do it! If you've been handed a raw deal, get mad—AND THEN GET OVER IT!

Life's too full of beauty and delight to waste it crying on your own neck, or chewing an imaginary shin.

Youth and Wisdom.

The Greeks used to depend upon their old men for wisdom and their young men for strength. President Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians is calling upon youth for both strength and wisdom in the appointment of Lou Boudreau, 24-year-old shortstop, as manager of the team.

Anyone who has followed even casually the fortunes of the Indians realizes what a task lies before the youthful Boudreau. Long the victim of internal strife, intrigue and incompetent leadership, the Forest City representative in the American league, after a few brilliant starts and one or two good seasons bogged down on the pennant home stretch. It now rests with Boudreau to re-organize the team, assume aggressive and effective leadership and seek to enter a winning club in next year's contest.—Massillon Independent.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Nine Tailors Make a Man."

This is not a reflection on the physique, virility, nor other manly attributes of the tailor.

The old saying is probably a corruption of "Nine tellers mark a man,"—in allusion to the practise, at the death of a man, to sound the bell thrice three tolls, the tolls being sometimes called tellers.

On this subject, there is also an Alger or Dick Whittington tale, dating back to the middle of the Eighteenth Century.

The hero is an orphan who traveled a long distance, finally reaching London, where he asked a leading tailor for alms.

The proprietor passed the hat around in his establishment, which consisted of eight other plyers of the needle—and all contributed to set the youngster up as a fruit vendor.

Out of the profits, our stalwart enlarged—from barrow, to stall, to store, to magnate—when he adopted as his motto, Nine tailors make a man.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

If My Hands Are Busy.

I do these household tasks and strange
It seems, yet it is true,
That something wholesome through these acts
Makes courage flame anew.

Grief robbed me of my faith and I
Sat idle long with tears,
Now strangely as I sweep and dust
Peace comes and calms my fears.

Distress and worry of this time
Are better borne because
My hands are busy; so I court
No rest and seek no pause.

Fish's Testimony May Clear Up Origin of Propaganda Mail Lists

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Few congressmen realize the ramifications of the franking scandal on which one of their fellow members was scheduled to testify before a grand jury today.

Ham Fish, the witness, who is the congressman from the president's own district and a grandson of a secretary of state, may not know all the ramifications either. But he may be able to throw light on some rather large checks which presumably had something to do with financing this much ramified propaganda.

For a long time around the capital it has seemed strange that when a letter was written to Congressman Day of Illinois (who wrote a book for a Nazi-financed publishing house) the name of the writer immediately turned up on a master mailing list, which was used to send out all sorts of isolationist, pro-German propaganda.

The same was true if you wrote to Senator Wheeler or Senator Reynolds or various other isolationists. Probably they, personally, did not know that their mail was going into a common pool. But certain names were purposely misspelled in letters to congressmen, and the same misspelled names immediately turned up on the master mailing list.

The justice department already has thrown some light on how this master mailing list originally was compiled, namely in the offices of a big motor company. There, a battery of selected stenographers was kept working on the top floor during the fall of 1940 sorting over the mail of Lindbergh, ex-Senator Rush Holt, Senator Nye and others. No company employes were allowed on the top floor except these stenographers, who were sworn to secrecy.

Short Wave Radio.

AFTERWARD this master list was sent to Scribner's Commentator at Lake Geneva, Wis. This paper, it has now been revealed, operated a sensitive short wave receiving set capable of picking up even the faintest messages from Berlin.

Meanwhile, in Washington, Congressman Fish's office has been in touch with other isolationist congressmen, where favorable fan mail has been picked up and turned over to compiling centers which added to the master mailing list.

Ham Fish's secretary, George Hill, also told the grand jury that he had spent a total of $12,000 in about six months for reprints of isolationist speeches inserted in the Congressional Record. These were mailed out to those on the master list. Hill did not testify, however, as to who paid him the money.

When this is disclosed, congress and the public should have a better idea of who is behind this, the most ramified and carefully organized mass propaganda attempt this country has ever seen.

Capital Chaff.

PICTURE of futility: Charming French Ambassador Henri-Haye at a banquet, volubly trying to convince Hitler-hating Senators Pepper of Florida and Green of Rhode Island that Vichy's collaboration with Berlin is clean and innocent. . . . Stamp collectors don't like Postmaster General Frank Walker as much as they did Jim Farley. Walker has droped Farley's practice of putting out frequent issues of new stamps. . . . Before the war, a resident of Alexandria, Va., joined the Marine Corps Reserves for the privilege of using the Army and Navy Country club, near his home. He really didn't mean to get into the service—but along came the war, the reserves were called to active duty, and he was sent to Iceland—on the Greer. . . . Interventionist Senator George of Georgia gets many a letter reading, "If you had a son in the army, you wouldn't be so eager—" etc. George's younger son, Joseph Marcus, is serving in the Atlantic patrol. . . . More worried than anybody else in the capital about the effect of priorities on business is Wyoming's earnest senator, Joe O'Mahoney. . . . Senatorial offices are flooded with requests from people who want promotion in the army and navy. Even an occasional colonel asks his senator to help him become a general.

Japan's Ups and Downs.

THE inside facts regarding the Japanese negotiations are that once in the past week the two governments were on the brink of an agreement, while three days later they were so near the precipice of war that orders actually had been issued to the U. S. navy.

And before this gets to print, the situation may be completely reversed again.

The hopes for a peace agreement reached their climax a week ago Tuesday. The prospects for war looked worse on the Sunday when President Roosevelt left Warm Springs for Washington. It was expected then that Japan would move into Thailand within 24 hours. In that case U. S. submarines and bombers were definitely prepared to go after Japanese transport ships bearing troops south.

The barometer of these diplomatic ups and downs is just one factor—Russia. As Russia stiffens, to an equal extent Japan relaxes her bellicose demands on the U. S. A. And as Russia retreats before Hitler, Japan stiffens.

Fundamental fact about Japan is that she is trying to bet on the winner. However, her war lords are convinced that if the United States and Britain succeed in defeating the totalitarian states, Japan won't have a smell in China. So they think their only real hope is with the Axis. And yet—they remain worried by the prospect of being squeezed between a powerful U. S. fleet and a still fighting Siberian army.

Was FDR a Warmonger?

LATEST congressional solon to find it doesn't pay to bring libel suits is Senator Ed Johnson of Colorado, who sued State Supreme Court Justice Ben Hilliard for $200,000 because Hilliard quoted Johnson as having called Roosevelt a warmonger.

Senator Johnson has just withdrawn the suit. Reason he did so was that Judge Hilliard wanted to summon him as a witness and find out just exactly what the senator did say about Roosevelt. The last thing the senator wanted, was to go on the witness stand.

So, to dodge being summoned, he stayed away from Colorado. Meanwhile, however, his political fences very badly needed repairing, and he just had to go to Colorado. In the end he dropped the libel suit.

Note: Keep an eye on hard-hitting young Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior, to challenge either Johnson or the successor to the late Senator Adams to a senate seat.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Nobody asked me, but I was sorry to see Bob Zuppke resign from Illinois. . . . When I was a cub, he was one of the first Big Shots I ever interviewed. . . . His teams were famous, and I think he guessed I was just cutting my teeth, for he quickly and easily took the interview out of my hands and told me everything I wanted to know, without my having to ask anything.

This was at the Athletic club in Columbus, and he said, "We haven't got any stars on our team. We haven't got any prima donnas or press-clipping Johnnies. But we've got a bunch of big, tough fellows who like to play football, and I think we'll do all right." . . This was on a Friday, and next day he clinched the Big Ten championship by beating Ohio State 14-7.

Playing for State at that time was the great Wes Fessler, one of the finest ends any team ever produced, and it was during this game that Fessler literally stole the ball out of the Illinois backfield and ran 90 yards for a score. But after that it was all Illinois. They walked off the field kings of the Big Ten, and nobody yet has ever had to apologize for Big Ten football.

Even in those days they talked of Zup's painting. He had a studio at Illinois and he spent much time in the off seasons following this hobby. Last year in Chicago he gave a one-man show, and the critics spoke respectfully of his work. After 29 years of coaching football, it would be funny if Bob Zuppke should be remembered for his oils on canvas. Funnier things have happened.

I FEEL old. . . . When you look around and consider the great things others have done in so short a time, how else can one feel? . . . Frank Leahy, Notre Dame's great coach, is only 34. . . . Orson Welles is in his early twenties. . . . Joe Wheeler was a general at 26. . . . Franz Schubert was dead at 31. . . .Jeb Stuart, greatest of all cavalry leaders, was dead at 31. . . . However, Leahy, Wells, and Stuart had something on Schubert. They knew they had something on the ball. Schubert died in poverty, little dreaming that he was immortal.

THOUGH hits are few, the theater shortage on Broadway has reached an acute stage. As of last night, there were 31 productions on the boards, with a dozen other openings scheduled for the next few weeks. Some of the shows which didn't receive very good press notices but which nevertheless have managed to hang on, have been shuffling between theaters so much that it is hard to keep up with them.

"Cuckoos on the Hearth" has moved three times since its premiere. Here is a show that has been kicked around and finally managed to hit its stride. It is showing a profit at last and seats are on sale four weeks in advance.

Not all shows that break from the wire poorly are so fortunate. Unless there is a "name" star to hold the trade, poor reviews almost invariably mean a fade out. "Cuckoos" seem to be this season's exception.

A Farmer's Diary

Lonely Quail

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN THE EVENING, after the first day of hunting season, I heard faintly, beyond the woods, the voice of a quail. Dusk was stealing across the landscape. It was just the time for the little bob-white mother to call her brood together for the night. It did not seem unusual when I heard the same note, far away, again—then at short intervals repeated.

I listened carefully as the cool air moved gently down the slope. For half an hour I heard the same insistent voice, which seemed to grow more plaintive and intense. I sensed some tragedy must have befallen her brood, and hurried up the hill and northward over the wooded portion. When I came to the edge of the open field overgrown with aster stems, I stood behind an oak.

Not a twig or dry red leaf or blade of grass moved in the frosty air. The silence was severe and almost painful after standing there a while. I thought perhaps the quail had heard my footsteps and flown away. I waited longer. Then, so near at hand that it startled me the bird's note came again. The sound rang out, loud and clear, "Whi-ite."

The sound floated far across the expanse of rolling field and echoed from the border of the woods. That modulated, liquid note seemed to be imbued with the loneliness of a wild mother heart. Here was a voice crying in a barren waste for her feathered family—and would not be comforted. Almost desperately she called again, then in searching silence listened for an answer. My own heart ached at the futility of her quest.

Thoughtlessly I broke a twig. Then I heard the rapid movement of tiny feet and glimpsed an eerie form vanishing beneath the undergrowth. Regretfully I waited, hoping I might hear once more that plaintive, thrilling call. Nothing more happened. My little friend was gone. Tonight she must sleep alone beneath a canopy of sheltering briers and at dawn begin again her search for what she may never find. But to me, she had given a bit of the classic music of the wild.

"We look before and after
And pine for what is not;
Our sincerest laughter
With some pain is fraught
Our sweetest songs are those that tell of saddest thought."

How to Make Your Own Cards

By MARGARET KERNODLE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Making your own Christmas cards is more fun and more work and gets more appreciation than you realize when you start out. I've been canvassing the folk who make their own. Here are some of the things they're doing this year. (And it's time to get going.)

Glazed chintz (using the chintz left over from the new upholstery in the den) is being pasted on bright pasteboard squares in family silhouettes. It's sort of a calico cat and gingham dog effect.

Then there's the lazy bones who is buying Christmas seals and bright wrapping paper and putting the two together for clever paste-on cards. You could do the same thing with magazine cutouts. It's an easy trick if your children are eager to make cards.

And in line with those new cards by the American sculptors' group—which has put out the first cards that look like bas-relief—you could use sealing wax to make modern-looking Christmas symbols.

Family photos might be more up-to-date on cards if they seem to be framed.

And don't ignore the boy or girl who suggests that you use linoleum blocks in homemade card printing.

It's a fascinating stunt and will win you praise.

Parent Must Control Self To Rule Child

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

We parents have few problems with our children which we have not, in some way, caused. Solution of these problems, therefore, requires us to change ourselves and our ways of dealing with the child. This means we must exercise self-discipline.

In testimony of this, a mother writes:

"Dear Dr. Myers:—We want to thank you for your reply to our letter and your helpful advice. Although several months have elapsed, you may still have on file your letter advising us about our 9-year-old daughter, her table manners and slowness.

"We took your advice to heart and have tried to discipline ourselves to be more tolerant and understanding, to express more praise and less criticism.

A Regular Schedule.

"I have put her on a schedule which lists her duties and the time they are to be done, allowing for playtime periods when she will not be bothered. She is orderly by nature and likes to have her time regulated in this way. I think it not only helps her to get things done now, but will be of use to her in the future for planning things. I try not to scold if she slips up on a few things.

"Her duties are to make her bed, keep her room in order and toys and clothes put away when not in use, dust her room twice a week and help me with the dishes at night.

"We are getting along with much less friction at meal times. We are trying to overlook little things and, as she is developing and changing all the time, some trifles that annoy seem to disappear suddenly.

Child Helpful.

"She cooperates very well and during vacation, she did many helpful things that weren't required. While, as you advise, we do not pay for her regular duties, we do help her to earn extra money by doing such things as she can, such as shining shoes, watching little brother while I have other duties to attend to. She is trying hard to save her money for what she considers the ultimate goal—a bike. . . . She does very well at school and we have praised her successes."

It is encouraging to read of this mother's progress with her daughter. A selected list of books to aid parents in understanding their children and live happily with them may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th St., New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"It won't be hard to pretend alarm," Lillian said, "especially when I can't be certain that your father and the surgeon are really faking for Harry's benefit."

"That will help you to put on a convincing performance," I said, "and you know that Father will not let you remain in ignorance of the truth very long."

"No, I suppose not," she said, sighing. "Do you mind if I range up and down for a while?"

"Not a bit," I rejoined, knowing so well the process by which she usually steled her nerves. "But are you sure you're strong enough?"

"I'm not strong enough to sit still," she retorted. So with an acquiescing "all right," I picked up a magazine, turned its pages mechanically and looked at them usually steeled her nerves. "But and down the room, her head thrown back, her eyes looking into space, her whole body taut.

Summoned by Nurse.

"The length of her cage," I quoted to myself, but spoke no word until Miss Whitlock knocked upon the door.

"You are to come back now, both of you," she said, and sped back again without giving us any chance for questions.

"She's been told not to talk," Lillian commented as we hurried down the hall.

"Doubtless," I answered, and then she stopped abruptly and seized my arm.

"Madge," she whispered, "do you see what this means? If they say Harry is in danger, how can I leave him to go to that restaurant tomorrow night, as those captors of Marion expect me to do? And I must go!"

"You don't have to decide that today," I said, trying to make my voice casual. "Just concentrate on Harry now. Don't let him see that you are worried."

"You've thought of something," she said. "But you're right. We mustn't think of anything save Harry just now. And I'll put on a good act. You'll see!"

"I know you will," I told her reassuringly—and truly—as we finished our dash along the corridor and came to the door of Harry's room.

"I can't help how many letters you have after your name," he was saying insultingly to Dr. Twitchell, "you can't keep me tied down here. I've got something to do, I tell you, that can't wait."

"It's likely to wait forever if you don't obey orders," the surgeon said imperturbably.

Lillian Calms Harry.

"Do you mean to tell me?" Harry raged when Lillian went over to him after an exchange of glances with the surgeon—silently asking and receiving permission for her action—and laid a tender yet compelling hand upon his lips.

"Please, Darling!" she entreated. "Don't worry about anything now. I'll straighten everything out for you. Just don't talk for a while."

"Okay, Sweet," he mumbled beneath her hand. Then, with a forced laugh which must have cost her much, Lillian took her hand away and faced the surgeon.

"What is it he must not do, and why?"

"He must remain perfectly quiet for one thing," the surgeon said inexorably. "He is not to get out of bed under any circumstances, and he is to keep his body as still as he can without making him too nervous."

Surgeon's Orders Imperative.

"For how long?" Her voice was staccato, imperative.

"Until I lift my prohibition," the surgeon replied, in tones as crisp as her own. "I will not be responsible for his case otherwise. It may be three days, it may be a much longer period. But his cheerful co-operation will materially cut down the time."

"If he obeys you," she said slowly, "is there danger?"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, December 6.
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A RATHER interesting and intriguing day is forecast from the most important planetary transits and mutual aspects. In business as well as in all sorts of cultural, artistic, affectional and social affiliations there should be unexpected progress, with inspiration in these lines coming in subtle or obscure ways. While hidden springs are active there is nothing of a sinister or pernicious nature to fear. In fact there is promise of unexpected advancement in public, fraternal or community work, with security and stability in sight, born of industry, merit and steadfastness. Shun extravagances.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for the advent of some very definite benefits and advantages coming to a head during the year, and springing from unsuspected or unanticipated sources. Secret and perhaps bewildering factors are at work to produce good results. This in recognition of fidelity and hard work and having no malefic or unworthy intent or purpose. In all matters be wise with funds and in self-indulgences. Also shun impetuosity and ill temper.

a child born on this day should be quick, impulsive and energetic, with great intellectual vigor and versatility which may place it in public or community service. Its social and artistic nature will be pleasant and its fortune secured by it own efforts as well as from hidden sources.

Problem of Girl Who Never Got a Date

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A score of well-written letters, unquestionably from "nice" people who want to meet "Unsophisticated," have been received by this column. Among them were two proposals of marriage, one from a soldier and the other from a young professional man!

Her letter appeared recently. She wrote: "I don't smoke, drink or hide my face under gaudy makeup, or paint my nails a butcher-house color. And here's what happens to my type of girl. After a dozen or so fellows have taken her out and find she doesn't drink or smoke and is not agreeable to a dark country road for parking, word spreads around that she isn't any fun. Thereafter, the girl with ideals and the hope of saving herself for the one and only man is just overlooked."

I am sorry that the proposals of marriage, the offers of friendship, the wish on the part of other unsophisticated girls to become acquainted must be turned down; it's an ironclad rule of this column not to exchange letters or in any way act as a go-between among readers.

"Unsophisticated's" letter was not a lone windfall. Scores of letters from girls of her type—girls who, in the hope of making the one and only man happy, prove that they live up to their ideals; girls who are "good and lonesome," to quote Mark Twain's cynicism.

It's amazing that it takes a letter like "Unsophisticated's" to spur young men to write to this column and insist they've been looking for just such a girl ever since they got a decent job and began to dream about love in a cottage. I wonder where these young men look for girls who don't care about parking on dark roads, drinking too much and are "hail fellows, well met" with everyone. Do they try to find them in dance halls, street corners or places where reckless folk gather and pick each other up?

Certainly, girls with ideals are not to be found in such places. But a good many men are like kids around a Christmas tree. They grab for the bright, glittery stuff and the lights that singe their fingers. So, as the girl writes, after several fellows have taken her out and find she draws the line, they spread the news about that she isn't any fun.

There's an old platitude about water seeking its level. It's only fair to suppose when a man marries a "painted parker," as a disillusioned husband wrote me in describing his wife, that there must have been some reason for his choice. Probably he enjoyed her company so well in the first place that he decided to convert the lady into a permanent domestic institution. But she wasn't domestic or permanent.

So many letters have come from girls who claim that, like "Unsophisticated," they never get a date, and expect to live and die in single blessedness. And an equal number of letters have come from men who say they never can find these "pearls." We'll be glad to publish both sides of the case in this column.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T BE A CISSY

Game is so valuable in rubber bridge that it is wise to push your cards just a little bit to get into a game contract. Stopping just short of game, and then making an extra trick is one of the most unsatisfactory things that can happen to you. Ordinarily the winning player of rubber contract is the chap who overbids a little rather than the one who frequently is found just shy of his side's potential.

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♥

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

Charles Lockett, considered by most St. Louis masters as the best rubber contract devotee in the Mound City, was rewarded for his bold bidding of the East hand. With two losers in clubs, one possible loser in spades and several in diamonds, he nevertheless went to game without hearing a peep from his partner. One factor in his deciding upon that jump to game was that the opponents had bid both clubs and hearts. Consequently his partner was likely to have something in diamonds, even though not enough to bid. And that was the suit where he wanted to find something.

After ruffing the heart K and cashing the spade A and K, Mr. Lockett lost the diamond 10 finesse to the J. A second heart lead was trumped and the club J sent to the K. The third heart ruff was followed by the club 9 lead, which South naturally took with the A to keep the Q from winning. He would not shoot a club back to the now good Q, so had only one other resource, a diamond. North put on the K, the A won, so did the Q and 8, and two spades finished the deal. The fact that West held the spade K, good for one trick, and four diamonds, enough to make the 8 in his own hand a winner, vindicated the judgment of the forthright bidder.

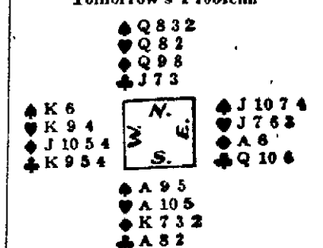
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

How many tricks should North be able to take on this deal at 1-No Trump, with sound play by all concerned, if East leads the spade 4?

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

by Sigrid Arne

THE STORY SO FAR: Princess Hildur grows up in the Kingdom of The Wide Rivers. She was the half of a white rose which Santa changed into a child. He has left her a magic opal.

Chapter Five

THE OPAL OPENS A DEEP CAVE

THE little girl baby, left in the castle, was named the Princess Hildur. Her father's kingdom was the Kingdom of The Wide Rivers. So the land was very rich; quite as rich as King Harald's land.

Hildur was much loved. She grew into a straight, slim girl with yellow hair and grey eyes. She was extremely curious about everything. She was so inquisitive that she drove her nurse to distraction. The nurse would find the child out in the stables asking about the horses, or down in the dairy barns pleading to milk a cow.

That pleased her father and mother, the King and Queen, because they thought a child with such curiosity would grow into a wise Queen.

So they found the wisest men in the kingdom to tutor her. At six she could speak French, Latin, Greek and English. At eight she wrote a long poem in Greek as a gift for her father.

At ten the King gave Hildur her first birthday festival. When the day came the sun was golden and the gardens were filled with late roses. At sunrise the King's trumpeters woke the whole palace. Hildur bounded out of bed and ran to the window, and there in the court-yard below, she saw her first present: a white pony with a blue saddle.

HILDUR hurried into a yellow riding habit and rushed downstairs. When the breakfast bell rang she rode her pony straight into the dining-hall where the King shouted, "Look, our little horse-woman. She doesn't have time to eat." He pretended to hide her breakfast, but Hildur jumped from her pony and played tag with her father until he led her back to the table where the Queen was laughing at the fun.

There was excitement all day. A big fete had been planned for the evening when there was to be a concert and a dance on the castle lawns.

But at dinner the King and the Queen and Hildur ate alone. That was because the King wanted to surprise Hildur with the best present of the day. Just before the dessert was brought in, the King reached into his gold cloth robe for a small, blue velvet box. It held the opal which, you remember, Santa had left beside her when he brought her to the castle.

HILDUR opened the box slowly and when she saw the fiery blaze of the beautiful stone she gasped, "Oh, how beautiful."

All through the meal she kept the opal in her left hand. When it was time to dress for the dance she begged a half hour to play by herself in the garden. She took the opal with her.

She ran through the white rose garden, through the pink rose garden and into the garden flamed with red roses. But there she tripped over a vine and as she fell the opal fell from her hand. It bounced three times and the third time a great hole opened in the ground.

"Oh, my pretty opal," sobbed Hildur as she scrambled to her feet. Then she looked down the hole. "Oh!" she gasped. There was a neat stone stair case. Hildur started down it.

TOMORROW: Princess Hildur meets the witches.

As she fell the opal sprang from her hand.

DISPUTE WAXES HOT OVER THE CONTROL OF CHOICE STREAM

(By International News Service)

PORT ARTHUR, Tex.—The fish that swim in the waters of the Gulf of Mexico are once again threatening to bring about civil war—in the courts—between the sovereign states of Louisiana and Texas.

An innocent gulf trout can cause more subversive activity than a full-fledged foreign nation's fifth columnists, it would appear. That is, if the trout happens to swim near the Sabine River east jetty, which extends from the mouth of the river out into the Gulf to keep the channel open for ship passage.

Four years ago game wardens of Louisiana claimed jurisdiction over a portion of the jetty especially favored by Texas anglers because from there the fishing is especially good. The claim of course was based on a desire to bring a little fishing-license revenue into Louisiana's coffers.

Texas retaliated by producing old maps and citing the Texas consitution as a basis for a counter-claim that the jetty is partly within the borders of Lone Star State territory.

Two years ago a Port Arthur member of the Texas legislature obtained passage of a bill establishing Texas' jurisdiction nine miles out from its land borders into the Gulf of Mexico. This "conclusively" put the jetty in Texas territory. Unfortunately Louisiana doesn't seem to be impressed by bills passed in the Texas Legislature.

The U. S. War Department, while not specifically upholding Texas' attitude in the controversy, certainly gives no comfort to Louisiana. That department has stated that Louisiana has no right to extend its boundaries 27 miles to sea in order to encompass the disputed territory.

The jetty itself is federal property, but that doesn't seem to have bothered Texas and Louisiana.

Meanwhile the fish keep swimming around the jetty. They're not worried about questions of jurisdiction until they're in some angler's creel—and then it's too late.

The Walls Came Tumbling + +

By Joseph McCord
(Copyright, 1941.)

CHAPTER IX

Once there, he closed the door and went to a dresser drawer. He turned and held out two small books to Carol who was watching curiously.

"Picked these up for you today," he told her. "What do you think of them?"

"Bank books . . ."

"Uh-huh. One's Jericho Savings, other's Centertown First National. Best not to have all your eggs in one basket, don't you think?"

The color drained from Carol's face as she opened the first book. With fingers that she shook she managed to read the single entry in the second.

"Andy!" she whispered through stiff lips.

Chester Dennison had been too busy with his firm's affairs in Jericho to worry uselessly over Andre Delaine's successful land speculation. Nevertheless it rankled and Chester's lower jaw set in a grim fashion whenever he chanced to encounter "that little chiseler." When the time came to execute the necessary papers for the transfer of the landing field tract, Dennison made a last brief bid for better terms and was politely but coldly turned down. Perhaps it was the unwillingness to accept defeat that led him to ask for the privilege of making the cash settlement. Andre had been explicit about the way he wanted the payment made.

At nine o'clock in the morning of the same day he called at Dr. Silverthorne's office to see Carol. Dennison walked briskly into Andre's little shop carrying a long envelope in his hand. Somewhat to his surprise he found the proprietor manipulating his pressing machine with great energy, whistling as he worked. He glanced over his shoulder at the newcomer with a careless nod of his gray head.

Dennison waited until a final thump of the pad and a hiss of escaping steam made conversation possible.

"I have something for you," he said. Instead of giving the envelope to Andre he opened it and spread the contents on a corner of the work table. "Here are two checks for fifteen thousand each," he recited. "One for ten thousand. One for nine thousand, four hundred fifty. I trust that works out sufficiently in line with your life's ambition."

Again Andre nodded. If Dennison noted a peculiar glint in the other man's blue eyes he dismissed it as evidence of greedy triumph.

"They are certified, you notice," he added with elaborate sarcasm. "Perfectly good."

"Do you want a receipt?" The corner of Delaine's mouth gave a slight twitch."

"Hardly. Your endorsement will be amble. My congratulations." Chester's glance swept the dingy room. "I suppose you will be closing up soon and . . . clearing out."

Andre's voice was low as he answered. But his tone was so cold and contemptuous that the younger man was startled into attention.

"I could wish, Dennison, that your manners were patterned a bit more closely after those of a gentleman. I'm weary of being treated as some species of a criminal. Your pose . . ."

"Say . . .!"

"Just a moment, please. I believe I am entitled to express myself on these premises. That small sum you are parting with in such smug anguish did not come out of your pocket, you know. I would be greatly surprised if a man like you would not grab at a track tip from a crooked jockey and wager your roll. If it will ease your suspicions, I will admit that I was given a tip. I didn't know how good it might be. All I got was the rumor a factory would be built here. I didn't know who was building it or where. I did a little figuring and placed a bet. That is considered a gentleman's privilege. Someone has to hit the daily double occasionally or it wouldn't be offered. I was lucky. That's the answer."

Dennison stared at him, speechless for the instant. Andre's mouth suddenly twisted in a smile. He reached out and picked up a partly consumed cigar that lay in a broken saucer.

"I wonder if I might trouble you for a match. I seem to have used my last one. I think I may possibly invest in one of those lighters."

Still without making any reply to the tailor's outburst, Chester located his matches and held them out.

"Thank you, sir. You know, Dennison," Andre observed gently and between puffs, "it's barely possible that, as an older man, I may not have set you an example of true courtesy by sounding off just now. If so, you have my apologies. But I believe you may not have fully appreciated my position. Money never has meant very much to me in a long and misspent life . . . oddly enough, it doesn't now. Not as I supposed it might. Philosophy from a dodderer is a boring thing . . . are you by any chance an admirer of Doctor Johnson's works?"

"Not particularly," was the stiff answer.

"I have been reminded of one of his sayings. To the effect that a man who is going to be hanged within the fortnight learns to concentrate in a marvelous fashion."

"I trust you are not contemplating such a fate." An unwilling interest forced the interjection.

"Not so soon perhaps," Andre mused. "But I have come to some rather unexpected conclusions. I think I suggested it once before. This unexpected luck means less and less to me. I'm too old to change most of my ingrown habits. But I have a debt to pay . . . to my daughter. Carol never has had the things in life she deserves. She doesn't remember her mother and her father has given her no reason to be proud of him, although she has been gently tolerant and affectionate. But she's young. She has time to enjoy life. All this will help her, even after I'm off to this side of nowhere. You see?"

"Oh, quite." In spite of himself, Chester found his first resentment melting. He hadn't expected that attitude. And he wondered, meanwhile watching Andre pick up the checks and thrust them carelessly in the envelope.

"I believe I may follow your suggestion about closing up," he smiled. "Temporarily, however." Dennison guessed the errand he had in mind.

"If you're off to the bank," he proposed, "I'll walk along with you." There would be a sensation when those checks were presented. He wouldn't mind being there if he could think of a legitimate excuse.

"Sorry, but I'm walking the other way," Andre told him.

Later, when Chester was parking his car on the roadside near the plant contractor's office a small sedan passed; he recognized Delaine sitting beside the driver. "So!" he said half-aloud. "Our tycoon is going to do his banking in Centertown. Maybe he's smarter than I gave him credit for." But Carol Delaine. Why must he keep thinking about her?

Shortly before the noon hour, Andre strolled into the Jericho bank and to Wige Lennon's window. The young teller gave him a friendly smile, surmising that Andre was about to cash a check and hoping it would be one over which no question could be raised, wishing that he did not have to make a service deduction.

"Hello, Mr. Delaine. What can I do for you?"

"Good morning, Wige. Why, I wish to open an account . . . two, in fact. This one is personal."

Wige gulped audibly as his trained eye grasped the significance of the green slip Andre pushed under the brass grille. Ten thousand dollars! Drawn on a New York trust company. To the order of Andre M. Delaine. And certified. With numb fingers the teller reversed it. Correctly endorsed.

"I suppose I don't need to be identified?"

"No," Wige managed. Banking etiquette came to his aid. One had to be precise. Courteous always.

"But you do want my signature?"

"Please." Wige's hand was none too steady as he furnished the required slip. "Will you use this pen?"

"There you are, my boy. Now an account for Carol."

Wige set his teeth at the sight of a second green check. It was for fifteen thousand dollars. He nodded as Andre observed ruefully:

"Always have to give the best of everything to the women. If you'll let me have both pass books I'll take Carol's signature card home and have her sign it. One of us will bring it in. Oh, yes. Two check books, Wige. Those folding ones, if you will. They're easier to carry."

Again Wige nodded, completed the transaction in silence.

It chanced there were no other customers in the bank as Andre made his leisurely exit. The young teller stood motionless and tense, staring down at the two green checks in a species of fascination. Strangely enough it had not yet occurred to him to wonder how Andy Delaine might have garnered that fortune from the plane company.

Twenty-five thousand dollars! More than half of it Carol's. But it might as well all be hers. That deposit cut him off from his greatest hope like shears severing a strand of twine. It was the only thing he seemed able to comprehend at the moment. His world had crashed leaving a sickening void.

GIRLS STICK TO DOLLS AS BOYS' TOYS GO 'ARMY'

Model Airplanes With Motors Popular With Junior; Games Still Liked.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Junior's 1941 Christmas is going to present a picture of roaring airplanes, puffing trains, whirling gears and rank upon rank of military equipment.

On the other hand, Ohio toy experts said today, junior's sister will stick to her dolls, teddy bears, dishes and dresses.

The taste motif for brother and sister, it is explained, is created by the times and tradition.

War news, defense activity, industrial progress, have stirred junior's imagination. He is going in for model airplanes powered with real engines built on a tiny scale; for miniature tanks and armored cars, in fact for all kinds of mechanical toys. The demand is greater than at any time within memory of the folk who have Santa Claus' wares on display in stores everywhere.

But sister's interest, running true to feminine form, remains tied up with the things that establish homes and keep them going. Of course the dolls that open and close their eyes, speak a mechanical word or two and require an occasional underchange are the popular type.

There is extraordinary interest in both the complete and knockdown airplanes for assembly at home. The choice of models is spread over pursuit, bomber, and transport types. Never before have stores sold as many models powered with engines that alone cost from $7.50 to $37.50.

Tanks are a little more popular than armored cars, and submarines and sailboats lead the list for water craft.

Scarcely any foreign toys are available, most of those on sale being little model soldiers made in Great Britain. Japanese and German-made toys are out for more reasons than there is space to enumerate.

Although there has been a big gain in sales of the mechanical toys, some of the old numbers still sell quickly. Hobby horses, checker and carom games, archery sets, miniature movie projectors, tools, sporting goods and the like are just as popular as ever and, though Christmas may not be a white one, some ski sales are being handled.

But one item that has almost disappeared is the old fashioned stereoptican for showing pictures and postcards on a screen. The movie machines have "ousted" it.

The Mother Goose rhymes, the story of Jack and the Bean Stalk, Swiss Family Robinson, Robinson Crusoe, Treasure Island and other books, too, have retained their popularity.

So all in all, it looks like Christmas—the 1941 version—is going to be a pretty swell day for the young folk in the family.

NEW INSPECTOR TO BE ON JOB

Major Reese To Check Draft Boards Here Under New State Set-Up.

The districts covered by Ohio draft board inspectors had been shuffled today for a second general check-up in the state, but Richland county's boards will still be checked by Major Victor C. Reese of North Ridgeville.

Major Reese has already made a number of trips to Richland county on routine visits, but his territory in the past has included the sections immediately east and southeast of Mansfield.

As inspector of district No. 9 he will cover Richland, Huron, Seneca, Sandusky, Ottawa, Lucas, Wood and Erie counties since the districts have been shuffled.

After the second inspection, the inspectors will return to their previous districts, State Draft Director C. W. Goble said. He added that the shift this time was made to have a new inspector conduct the second inspection of each local draft board.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — This column discussed the improvements that could be made by the use of men of less than perfect physique for jobs not requiring such perfection, by relaxation of some of the physical standards, especially as to dental requirements, and by a much wider use of women in jobs for which they are particularly fitted.

Johnson

It also criticized the 28-year draft age rule as one not of application in all cases. This implied no criticism of the effective work of General Hershey and his selective service system. That system has functioned as well as any other in the world and as perfectly as could reasonably be expected in such an emergency development.

But there is another field, almost equally important, which slightly overlaps this one but which is, in the main, in the same general area. I refer to the insuring of selected and efficient manpower in insuring skilled labor to defense production.

It is true that there has been created within the general framework of OPM, a labor supply committee, operating under the able direction of Arthur S. Fleming of the civil service commission. This committee has been working for some time but very little public attention has been given to its activity. It has at least one virtue—in this field, the government seems to have at least partly appreciated the vital necessity of co-ordinating the efforts of all agencies affected by a single purpose under a single directive head. This is a basic principle of organization which has been too generally neglected in other phases of our mobilization effort.

Some idea of the need for centralized control is conveyed, in this complex field of labor supply, by considering the number of agencies that are vitally involved. In addition to the various branches of the labor division of OPM, there are included, among others, the defense vocational training division of the federal security agency, the United States employment service and all its affiliated state service, the civil serivce commission, NYA, Department of Agriculture, WPA and the great employers of defense production—Army, Navy and Maritime commission. Certain attenuated offices of the wrecked department of labor and the federal committee on apprenticeship are also involved.

In England this entire problem is handled by a single ministry of labor as it is in all other adequately organized governments. That it has been necessary to co-ordinate all these agencies through an office not even connected with the department of labor is a sad commentary upon the hap-hazard growth of our topsy-like mobilization organization.

Under these handicaps the work of Fleming and his emergency organization are subject to even more commendation. It is to be hoped that the progress he has made will not be impaired by the petty inter-departmental bickerings likely to be engendered, the rumblings of which are already beginning to be ominously heard from some of the highly perfumed prima donnas who are the titular heads of the organization from which some of these subcommittees are drawn.

A good deal has been heard about the ultimate authority of Sidney Hillman as the top-side poo-bah of all labor policies of this government.

If, with the clear authority of a plenary executive order in this field, he cannot stop the petty jealousies of existing bureaus whose peace-time prerogative may be here unimportantly invaded, he can hardly escape responsibility for the result if that be neither creditable nor effective.

SHARP RISE IN INDUCTIONS TO ARMY EXPECTED

Draft Boards To Get Heavier Quotas as Land and Air Forces Expand.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A sharp upturn in the rate of selective service inductions was predicted today, because of the army's announced plans to expand land and air strength to some two million officers and men.

Beginning shortly after the holidays, officials expect the draft boards to be called on to provide recruits in larger numbers than at any time in months.

At the same time, efforts will be intensified to accelerate three-year enlistments for the air forces and related branches, which are manned by specifically qualified volunteers.

Generally, the prospects are that at least half a million additional recruits must don uniforms by spring, if the army is to carry out the latest expansion proposed to congress and simultaneously get replacements for the soldiers who just now are being returned to civil life in large numbers.

The $8,109,945,898 defense appropriation measure, which is expected to reach a house vote today, calls for a net increase of about 300,000 officers and men, to be about evenly divided between the air and ground forces. Two more armored divisions, the army's seventh and eighth, are to be created.

At the moment the army is barely holding its own in strength, with fewer than 1,600,000 in service. By Dec. 10, some 200,000 men over the new top age limit of 28 or with dependents will have been discharged since the draft ages were contracted in late summer. Recent draft inductions and voluntary enlistments, which have mounted to 26,000 or so a month, have barely sufficed for replacements.

By next March, "provided there is no change in the existing situation," as the war department has stipulated, possibly 300,000 others will have been returned to civil life.

The situation as a whole points to a sharp stepping up of inductions next month.

Of some 17,000,000 men registered, all but 10 per cent have been classified by local draft boards according to their availability for army duty.

Members of the Junior Association of Commerce have asked city council to pay for half of the cost of an inhalator to be used by the police department in emergency gas, electric shock or drowning cases. The association offers to pay $80 of the $160 necessary to purchase the life-saving aquipment. At present, the city has only one inhalator which is used by the fire department.

Worwmen laying underground electric cables in the East Third street area have uncovered an old cobblestone paving in the alley beside the DeSolo hotel. The stone paving, constructed back in the city's horse and buggy days, is nearly two feet below the present surface of the street, showing that the path followed by horses in the middle of the alley was considerably lower than the wheel tracks at the edges. When the automobile came into use, the paving was leveled off and several layers of "black-top" added workmen said.

The Junior Red Cross members in Mansfield Senior high school added their bit to the Christmas cheer of Uncle Sam's sailors on the high seas by turning over more than 300 attractive menu covers to Richland county chapter of the Red Cross for shipment to the navy department. Made with colorful paper the programs were executed by the pupils under the direction of Miss Marjorie Campbell, Senior high school art instructor. The Senior high school Junior Red Cross also filled 25 "ditty bags" for soldiers with such handy items as jackknives, shaving cream, stationary, sewing kits and a diary.

EIGHT BODIES RECOVERED, 6 STILL MISSING

17 Sent To Hospitals When Three Spans Fall; Fog Hinders Search.

(Picture on Page 2)

(By United Press)

HARTFORD, Conn. — Divers went back into the cold Connecticut river today to search for more victims of the collapse of three spans of the world's largest girder bridge.

Six or seven of the men who were working on the spans yesterday when they fell 150 feet into the river, were missing. Eight bodies had been recovered, and 17 injured men were in hospitals, eight in critical condition.

Fog and the difficulty of searching in the dark beneath the ponderous, submerged girders forced divers to come up at midnight. Two hours before, the body of the eighth victim, Martin Ridgeck, 43, of New York, had been brought up.

The girders collapsed yesterday, while a 26-ton mobile crane was lifting a 98-ton girder. It slipped from the crane and crashed into two other girders, weighing 95 tons each. They gave way, then the entire span plummeted into the river with a deafening crash.

The spans were part of the 842-foot main river section of the 3,926-foot bridge, begun in September, 1940, and scheduled to cost $4,500,000. The American Bridge company, which is building the bridge, did not immediately estimate the damage.

The dead, in addition to Ridgeck, were: Leo Volinger, 48, West Hatfield, Mass.; Joseph Morrin, Lewiston, Me.; Frank E. Place, Hartford; Nicholas A. Logan, New York; William R. Lipsey, 47, New York; William J. Ward, 60, Waterford, Conn., superintendent of construction for the bridge company, and Jerome R. McClain, Middletown, Conn., a foreman.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Manhattan Nights.

I SUPPOSE it was someone very old and very wise (and very French) who remarked, "The more things change, the more they are the same," but it might have been a Broadwayite.

Every Broadway lullaby has a second chorus, every whisper an echo. I daresay if some Rip van Winkle of the night shift dozed off a couple of decades ago in some nice single feature movie house and awakened this week he'd be baffled into the belief that everything was practically as it used to be. The headlines now are twins to the headlines yesterday.

Talk of cafe society now is Gloria Vanderbilt, with her dark, white-skinned beauty, her incongruous beaux, her startling coiffures, her daring dresses. That's just the way it used to be not so many years ago when her mother, the original Gloria Vanderbilt, furnished endless chit chat over the frail teacups of Fifth avenue society.

In the theater, Diana Barrymore is causing an enthusiastic ripple, just as Miss Ethel Barrymore did when she first hit the Broadway scene. Terry Lawlor, who is singing in the night clubs, is the daughter of Alice Lawlor, who sang at Ziegfeld's Winter Garden years ago.

And remember how Dorothy and Hannah Williams were considered the cutest sisters in town?

Remember how they sang "Vo-Do-de-oh" and all the silly tunes of the silly flapper era? Well, at lunchtime at Jack Dempsey's restaurant a few days back, Hannah's little daughters scampered to the bandstand and delivered a duet of "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire." Joanie and Barbara will probably duplicate their mother's and aunt's career—in fact, right now they sing in the key of C, just as Hannah and Dorothy did.

Ben Turpin, that wonderful silent screen comedian of our childhood, is really cross-eyed. Perhaps you never gave it a second thought or entertained the slightest doubt that the film comedian's orbs were authentically of the tangent variety, but a lot of movie fans have wondered about it and after all these years Ben has worked out a form letter in response to the query.

"Dear Sir or Madam," goes the Turpin reply. "In answer to your inquiry as to whether I'm really cross-eyed, please be advised that I spent several of the worst years of my life in the Southeast trying to join the Northwest Mounted Police!"

ASKS REVIEW

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Robert Firestone of Cleveland has asked for a supreme court review of his conviction in Knox county of attempting to induce Harry Barrington, former Cleveland labor leader, to escape from a prison camp at Mt. Vernon and flee to Mexico. Firestone was sentenced to three to 15 years in prison.

DIES AT AGE 70

Caroline Long Was Sister of Mansfield Resident.

ASHLAND — Caroline Long, 70, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Hart after two months' illness.

Born near McZena, March 16, 1871, she was a life-long resident of Ashland county and a resident of the city for the past 34 years. She was a member of the Evangelical Lutheran church of McZena.

She is survived by six daughters, Mrs. Clarence Hart, Mrs. Clinton Gongwer, Mrs. Frank Stoll, Mrs. Ernest Mead, Mrs. Martha Farley, and Mrs. Darrell Kaylor, all of Buffalo, N. Y.; five sons, John and Cloyd of Ashland, Henry and Clarence, of Buffalo, N. Y; and Ralph of Ft. Dix, N. J.; and five sisters, Mrs. Edward Taylor and Mrs. Lloyd Schmunk of Mansfield, Mrs. Andrew Easly and Mrs. Emma Hoyer of Loudonville, and Mrs. Bertha Mahler of Fredericksburg.

Seven brothers also survive: Charles Smith of Lucas, John and Gust of Ashland, Jacob and Daniel Smith of McZena, and William and Albert Smith of Loudonville.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Hart, with ev. Charles Mayes officiating. Burial will be in the Ashland cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Pearle Harding of Shenandoah, who died yesterday at Shelby Memorial hospital after a brief illness, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the Jones Memorial, with Rev. Turner Holt, Shenandoah pastor, officiating. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

Mrs. Harding is survived by her husband, Fred, a relative of the late President Warren G. Harding, and one brother, James A. Shea of Mansfield.

Welcome To—

A son, born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alexander, Perrysville, yesterday at General hospital.

TRACE THIEVES TO SHELBY AREA

Cleveland and Shelby Police Looking For 'Hide-Out'; Trio Under Arrest.

SHELBY — Investigation into the activities of an alleged gang of Ohio truck-trailer thieves turned to Richland county today as Cleveland detectives and Shelby police sought the gang's workshop, believed to be near here.

Cleveland police, who came here to enlist the aid of Shelby authorities, Police Chief Leroy Coffey said, had three suspects in jail whom they accused of altering motor and body numbers of stolen vehicles.

Associated Press dispatches from Cleveland said authorities there had recovered approximately $12,500 worth of loot in a search of the home of one of the suspects.

Cleveland police said all three men were implicated in the theft of two tractors and three trailers in Ohio and Indiana and the theft in Cleveland of a truck laden with beer, wines and liquors.

Coffey said it was believed that one of the suspects had lived near Shelby and was using either a barn or garage in which to store the vehicles while serial numbers on the stolen trucks and trailer bodies were changed.

Failure of one of the suspects to make a boulevard stop at Peninsula, O., led to the arrest of the three, the United Press reported.

The suspect fled from his truck when a deputy sheriff tried to question him. The deputy found a driver's license, a gun, a blackjack, a chauffeur's license and stencils and tools to remove automobile motor numbers in the truck.

Letters found in Parma led to the arrest yesterday of a Michigan man, in whose home were found bills of sale for wrecked trucks purchased by the ring.

Convict Grabs Gun, Attempts to Flee From Bus.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va.—(INS)—One prison guard was dead and another was in Glendale hospital in serious condition today from the attempt of a convict to escape returned to the state penilen- from a bus on which he was being tiary here.

His escape was halted by other convicts among the 27 aboard the bus. They overpowered him and seized the .38 caliber gun he had wrenched from the holster of the driver of the bus.

SENTENCED FOR ASSAULT

LIMA—(AP)—A one to 15-year sentence in Ohio penitentiary has been imposed on Edward Hile, 37, of Lima, on his guilty plea to a charge of assault with intent to rape in the murder attack of a 17-year-old girl.

TAFT SUGGESTS SENATE TALK TO HOOVER ON PRICE CONTROL

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Senator Taft (R., Ohio) suggested today that the senate call upon former President Herbert Hoover for advice when it tackles the controversial price control measure already passed by the house.

Taft, who is sponsoring substitute price legislation, said that Hoover acquired vast practical experience in price fixing while serving as federal food admistrator during the World war.

"If the senate wants to learn from someone who really knows how to fix prices we should invite Mr. Hoover here," he said. "He did more real price fixing during the last war than anyone in our history."

The Ohioan made his suggestion as Senator Glass (D., Va.), acting chairman of the senate banking committee, announced he would seek to speed hearings on the disputed house bill. These begin Tuesday with Leon Henderson, acting price administrator, as first witness.

Taft, however, thought that the complicated issue might necessitate hearings to "continue for several weeks."

Senate Majority Leader Barkley (D., Ky.), a member of the banking committee, was expected to lead administration forces in an attempt to have the bill provide for the licensing of business dealing in controlled commodities and for government power to buy and sell such commodities. The house greatly modified administration requests covering these points, and consequently the house-approved bill has been criticized in many quarters as ineffective and toothless.

Most senators said the chief battles in the senate probably would revolve about price ceilings for farm products and demands for controls over wages and salaries.

ILL 17 MONTHS

Edward R. Wisler Succumbs at Home In Galion.

GALION—Edward R. Wisler, 77, died late yesterday after an illness of 17 months.

Born at Caledonia March 14, 1864, he was a retired grocer, and a director in the U. S. Steel Grave Vault company.

In addition to his widow, Mary, he is survived by three daughters, Mary of Cleveland, Mrs. John Parrine, of Cleveland, and Mrs. George Lisse of Galion.

He is also survived by two sons, Cyril and Francis of Galion; and two sisters, Sister M. Faustina of Joliet, Ill., and Sister M. Demercedes of Tiffin.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m., Monday in St. Joseph's Catholic church, with Father William Pfeifer officiating. Burial will be in Mt. Calvary cemetery.

FILE TEST SUIT

Richland Farmers Go To Court Next Week on AAA Penalty.

A suit to test the validity of the federal AAA wheat marketing quotas and penalty will be filed in Richland county common pleas court early next week, H. H. Fackler, Plymouth, chairman of the Richland County Marketing Quota Protest association, said today.

William Lemke, former congressman from North Dakota, will file the action as chief counsel for the national protest groups throughout the nation, Fackler said.

Two cases involving the quotas and penalty already have been filed in Ohio, one in Union county and the other in Stark county.

The action to be filed here will climax a campaign that started last summer when a group of county farmers organized and held a number of protest meetings, contending that the quotas and penalty were illegal and a "threat to American democracy."

FUNERAL TODAY

Mrs. Jane Murphy, 72, To Be Buried In Memorial Park.

Brief funeral services for Mrs. Jane Hosler Murphy, 72, wife of Charles Murphy, who died Wednesday at her home in Cincinnati, will be held at 2:30 p. m. today in Memorial Park at the grave with Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church, officiating.

The sister of Mrs. Edward S. Emery of Mansfield, Mrs. Murphy was born near Tiffin, and had been a Cincinnati resident for the past several years.

Besides her husband and sister, she is survived by several nieces and nephews.

THINK ALIKE

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Among the psychologists who suspect identical twins are apt to have similar thought patterns, there should be some interest in Ted and Fred Briggs, 18, of Martin's Ferry.

Without saying anything to the other, one of them decided the other day to go to a temporary recruiting station and sign up.

Who should be there but the other brother? They were sworn in yesterday.

VOTES PROTESTED

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Telegrams protesting their votes for the Smith bill to curb strikes in defense industries were sent to 13 Ohio representatives by Ted F. Silvey, secreteary-treasurer of the Ohio Industrial Union council.

Boom Saves State $3,500,000 Relief Bill Says Official

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood predicted today that defense boom prosperity which has driven state relief rolls to "the irreducible minimum" will save the state approximately $3,500,000 in relief funds this year.

Sherwood estimated that the state's November relief bill would be approximately $1,220,000, an increase of 2 per cent over October, and that relief costs for the year would total about $17,000,000. The total figure would be approximately $7,000,000 less than the $24,339,650 spent in 1940.

He said the state would save nearly $3,500,000 because it pays half of local relief costs.

On the basis of reports from 104 of the state's 153 local relief areas, the welfare director said that the November case load would be about 42,400 cases, a slight increase over the 42,188 cases on the rolls in October. The October case load was the lowest in nine years.

ENDORSE U. S. FOREIGN POLICY

3,000 Ohioans Reply To Poll By Toledo Congressman.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — In response to a congressman's post card poll, more than 3,000 Ohioans today endorsed the government's foreign policy by a 600 vote margin and registered five-to-one opposition to a more conciliatory attitude in the United States' relations with Japan.

The poll was conducted by Rep. John F. Hunter, D., Toledo, as a challenge to claims that the America First Committee had a strong following in Toledo.

Tygers Open Cage Season With Columbus Tonight

Sport Podge by REX HESS

MASSILLON FEARS MANSFIELD IN 1942!

Hey, what's that? Little bit early for that stuff, isn't it Bud?

Nope, it's just as true as I'm telling you.

Massillon FEARS Mansfield won't be able to come close to seating the crowd that'll turn out for the Tiger-Tyger football battle here next fall.

Massillon's got something there. Mansfield won't be able to seat its own fans for that gridiron classic of '42. To say nothing at all of the possibly 10,000 Massillon fans who'll want to see the Tigers gain revenge for the 6 to 6 deadlock of '41.

* * *

All this I gathered in chatting with Coach Bud Houghton and his aides at the great victory banquet staged by Massillon's Boosters club last night, celebrating seven straight years of Ohio high school championship.

"You really ought to do something about arranging for us to see our own ball game," they told us.

I think so too. And a movement is already under way to shift the game to Akron's Rubber Bowl where both Mansfield and Massillon can witness the fracas in comfort.

Mansfield could draw down a guarantee of something like $12,000 for a Massillon game at Akron. That's more than the Tygers drew for the entire season this year at home. Think it over, boys, and well.

* * *

On the championship flag adorning the center of stage for the Massillon victory party last night were marked the years of Massillon supremacy — 1935-1936-1937-1938-1939-1940 AND 1941.

Well, Mansfield won't argue the point on that 1941 issue, in spite of its 6 to 6 tie with the Tigers. That scoreless deadlock with Canton McKinley settled that.

We still insist that Massillon is the best in the state, and Mansfield is just as good as the best, off that 6 to 6 tie.

* * *

There's one football championship I'll gladly hand the Massillons. That's the football banquet championship. You never saw an after-dinner program carried out in just the way the Massillons do it.

Speakers were interrupted every two minutes by a vaudeville program that saw bowlers kegling on the stage, Hindus praying for rain for Canton Coach Ben Schwartzwalder, farmers carrying all varieties of livestock through the auditorium "Warren" photographers trying to take pictures etc., etc., etc.

Only Lynn Waldorf, coach of the Northwestern university Wildcats, and principal speaker of the evening, escaped the good natured jibes of the jubilant Massillon boosters.

* * *

Coach Paul Snyder of the Mansfield Tygers got a big hand when he told the crowd:

"This is the second time this year I've had a lot of fun in Massillon."

And the conductor of this strip was introduced as a Mansfield coach. This was later corrected and he was introduced again as the only sports writer for an opposing team who had fun covering a Massillon game.

Baseball Meeting Closes

Few Deals Completed At Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—The New York Giants may be rebuilt; the Cleveland Indians may be overhauled; the Cincinnati Reds may get a blood transfusion—but it won't be done in Jacksonville.

While the 40th convention of the National Association of Professional Babeball Leagues ground to a close, the big leaguers banked the fires of baseball's rumor foundry and headed for Chicago for next week's major league meeting where many of them are expected to renew dickering for trades which failed to materialize here.

Minor league officials wound up the loose ends and themselves prepared to pack up and head for home.

The convention produced little in the way of big news. Principal headline catchers were:

1. Reorganization of the New York Giants, with Bill Terry placed in charge of farm operations and Mel Ott appointed manager.

2. A surprise legislative maneuver by the chain store systems, aimed at relaxing Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis' restrictions on control of ball players, which however must be ratified by the majors and the commissioner.

* * *

3. Appointment of Bert Shotton and Oscar Melillo as Cleveland coaches, and sale of Cleveland Catcher Rollie Hemsley to the Cincinnati Reds.

* * *

4. Trade of veteran Outfielder Hank Leiber by the Chicago Cubs to the Giants for Pitcher Bob Bowman and cash.

5. Purchase of Pitcher Hank Gornicki from St. Louis by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The minor league officials were called by President William G. Bramham for a 10 a. m. final business session, with only routine items still to be attended to.

Rams Tangle With Union

Non-League Tilt Booked at Madison Tonight.

Madison's Rams will entertain the Union high school basketball team on the Madison floor tonight in their last non-league match before Richland county loop play gets under way.

* * *

Winners last week in a game with Lexington, the Rams scrimmaged Wednesday with the Mansfield Tygers and will have more actual playing time under their belts than the Union team which has no game scheduled until this one.

* * *

Wednesday Wally Wynn found his eye after a poor showing against Lexington and with Harold Hammer, other Ram forward, led the team in scoring.

Other Richland county games tonight will take Shiloh to Plymouth in a Twin Valley league game, Ontario to Lucas, Butler to Lexington and Jeromeville to Bellville.

CHARTERS LEADS IN WESTIE C LEAGUE

J. Charters paced the Westinghouse "C" bowling league last night with a 591 total on games of 203-178-210. Boyle rolled a 208 game.

Standard Ball Advocated

Would Have All Diamond Leagues Use Same Type.

By BOMNEY WHEELER.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(AP)—Baseball "ivory hunting" — the most hazardous of business gambles—would be just like buying beans at the corner grocery if the minor leagues adopt a proposal put forward here by a New York state sports editor.

Jack Minnoch of the Amsterdam, N. Y., Recorder, second vice president of the National Federation of Baseball Writers, wants the minors to standardize specifications of baseballs. And he has warm support in the major leagues, where the boys put hard cash on the line for talent.

"I'm highly in favor of it," said Larry MacPhail of the Brooklyn Dodgers. "I don't see any argument against it."

* * *

Paul Krichell, chief scout for the New York Yankees, went along with MacPhail. "A player may hit great guns with a lively ball and fizzle when he gets up against pitchers handling a deader ball," he said.

Minnoch dug into the 1941 batting averages and came up with some significant figures.

The Piedmont league, Texas league and International league each use baseballs identical with those specified for the big leagues. Each league had exactly eight hitters last season who averaged .300 or better. The ball (Spaulding) has what its manufacturers describe as a cork-cushion center. The makers rate it as not particularly lively.

* * *

The Southern association, Southeastern league and South Atlantic league use another make (Goldsmith) with a rubber center. The averages ranged from ten .300-hitters in the South Atlantic to 29 in the Southern and 30 in the Southeastern.

A third maker (Wilson) produces a ball similar to that in the big leagues but calls it a bit livelier because of slightly different materials. The American Association, using this ball, showed 16 batters averaging .300 or better, while the Canadian-American league which Minnoch said has subnormal pitching last season—listed 28 batters in the same class.

Hank Leaves Army Buddies

Citizen Greenberg Prepares For Baseball.

FORT CUSTER, Mich.—(AP)—Sergt. Henry Greenberg, who was called from the Detroit Tigers' outfield to become a soldier, said farewell to the United States army today and planned to resume the life of a baseball player.

After 180 days of soldiering, big Hank was ticketed to leave Fort Custer at 10:30 a. m. (EST) with a host of uniformed men to see him off.

On the eve of his departure, Greenberg declared his biggest thrill of leavetaking was that "now I am able to become a ballplayer again."

* * *

"Since I've been in the army there hasn't been a chance even to think about baseball," he said. "All that was either in the past or the distant future. But now I can go home to New York, wait for spring and begin training for my old job with the Tigers."

* * *

That was all the lanky outfielder, rated the American league's most valuable player in 1940, had to say about his plans.

The former Tiger home run slugger described his physical condition as better than it was last year at the same time. During his service period he played handball several times a week at a local Y. M. C. A.

Less than seven months ago Greenberg was hailed as the top selectee of the sports world. He was assigned to an infantry anti-tank unit after his induction at Detroit and during the short term of his service was promoted from the rank of private to sergeant.

Greenberg, who will be 31 years old Jan. 1, qualified for release under the army ruling that men over 28 may be discharged. He now becomes a member of the army's trained reserve. Last night as he put aside his uniform, the sergeant gathered together a gang of his soldier friends and treated them to a party at nearby Kalamazoo, Mich.

MIAMI WINS

OXFORD—(AP)—Sinking 11 of 18 free throws, Miami University cagers trimmed Transylvania of Kentucky, 46-41, in a basketball game last night. McDade and Clapp of the Redskins shared scoring honors with 14 points each. Transylvania missed five of its 14 free throw attempts.

N. Y. U. Gridders Would Oust Coach

NEW YORK—(AP)—Armed with statements from several recent New York university footballers that there's something wrong with Coach Mal Stevens' system and methods, the Violets' alumni athletes rolled up their sleeves today for a fight to get something done about NYU's gloomy gridiron status.

These recent gridiron graduates charged before a general meeting of the Letter Club of former Violet athletes last night that Dr. Mal, who came to NYU from Yale in 1934, was "only a part time coach on a full-time salary," spending considerable time at his medical practice; that the squad "is not conditioned properly nor correctly schooled in fundamentals."

* * *

Thus the storm that has been brewing for two years finally broke, and the off-stage giggle you heard might have been that of Chick Meehan, who built NYU teams into a ranking power in the nation during the late '20's and who left late in 1931 during Prof. Badger's campaign to "deodorize, not de-emphasize" the university's football set-up.

BIXLER SPEAKS AT BUCYRUS BANQUET

BUCYRUS — Paul Bixler, assistant football coach at Ohio State university, will be the speaker at the annual football banquet to be held Tuesday night in St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. Bixler will also bring movies of the Ohio State-Michigan football game which ended in a 20-20 score.

The banquet will honor members of the B. H. S. football squad and coaches Nick Wasylik, Randall Motts and Charles Tschanen. The "Boosters" club is sponsoring the event.

NAMED CAPTAIN

TIFFIN—(AP)—Bob Henning of Louisville, Ky., a three letter winner in football, was named honorary captain of the Heidelberg college Student Princes' grid team. Fred Folino of Cleveland, a junior who switched from center to end this year, was voted the team's most valuable player.

FUND TRANSFER REQUESTS BURY COMMISSIONERS

'Surplus and Deficit' Season Arrives as Year-End Finds Revenues Dwindling.

This is the "surplus and deficit" season at the courthouse when most of the entries on the county commissioners journal concern transfers of funds from departments that have surpluses to those with deficits.

In the past three weeks commissioners have approved at least 15 transfers involving close to $8,000.

When the transferring is all done at the end of the month, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe expects to have from $6,000 to $8,000 left in the general fund to help the county over the lean months of January and February.

The increasing cost of supplies has been responsible for more deficits this year than at any time in recent years, the auditor said.

"We thought last year when the 1941 appropriations were set up that we had everything mapped out so there wouldn't be much trouble now, but prices have changed since then and some of our funds were used up too soon," Wolfe said.

In the auditor's own department, the rising cost of office supplies forced him to seek a transfer from the salary fund to the supplies fund to make necessary purchases.

The operating surplus at the end of the year will come in handy during the first two months of 1942 when there will be little tax money coming in, the auditor pointed out.

January and February are "in between" months for the county government. The preceding year's tax money has been collected and used and the new collection usually doesn't start until February. It's the end of February ordinarily before there is enough tax money in the treasury to start allocating funds to the county and its subdivisions.

The auditor's monthly financial report for November shows that the county had a balance of $36,751 in the operating fund Dec. 1. That represents an increase of $16,700 over the Nov. 1 balance.

County receipts in November totaled $46,811 and the expenses amounted to $30,074. The county road and bridge fund Dec. 1 was down to $28.58, the report shows.

SOUTHERN STATES CULTIVATE ONCE-HATED JIMSON WEED

(By International News Service)

JONESBORO, Ark.—For years Southern farmers have fought the noxious jimson weed. Now some are actually cultivating the once-hated plant.

Like many other changes made in America in recent months, this too can be attributed to the war abroad. In former years about 150,000 pounds of dried jimson weed leaves were imported annually from Germany and Russia for use in certain medicines, tonics and compounds for heart ailments.

Now that these overseas supplies have been shut-off, medicine manufacturers are ready to buy the plant from native "growers" although they expect to have to pay a higher price than the two to eight cents a pound the foreign product was costing.

Several weeks ago farmers in this vicinity were busy cutting the weed from their cotton fields when Fred E. Bacheller of Deland, Fla., came to Jonesboro and announced he would purchase as much of the weed leaves and seeds as farmers could bring in. He offered to pay one-half cent a pound for the green plant as pulled from the soil, explaining that it takes about 23 pounds of the weed in this form to make one pound when dried.

Edgar Maywood, a Jonesboro florist, was appointed Bacheller's buying agent and plans were made to open a warehouse. At the same time, the Jonesboro Fur and Hide Company became a competitor by advertising for the weed.

The plant grows abundantly and in the wild stage in all southern states. It is known variously as the Jamestown lily, thorn apple, mad apple, devil's apple, devil's trumpet, stinkwort or stinkweed.

Children have often been poisoned by eating its seeds and taking its flowers into their mouths. Sometimes the pupils of their eyes dilated when they chewed up the seed.

Although cattle will not touch the plant when it is green, they have been poisoned by the young leaves of it accidentally cured in hay.

Several farmers in the Jonesboro area are planning to grow experimental patches of jimson next year. Farmers in the community of Pine Bluff, Mo., are cultivating the plants this year.

GALION CLUB STAGES PARTY ON THURSDAY

Business and Professional Women Have Christmas Program.

GALION — Most attractive were the tables for the Christmas party of the Galion Business and Professional Women's club, Thursday evening, at Peace Lutheran parish house. With a large Christmas tree in the center, tables extended from it in such a manner as to represent the five points of a star. Sprigs of evergreen and lighted tapers placed in holders made of apples, decorated the tables. Favors were Santa Clauses made of apples and marshmallows. The 58 members and guest present, ate by candlelight.

In Christmas greeting style, the president, Bertha Chacopulos, welcomed the group. After the dinner, a program was presented in the auditorium, and consisted of a Christmas story by Mary Alice Burden; the Messiah sung by the glee club; and another reading given by Winona Lehman. Accompanist for the evening was Mrs. William Carr.

During the business session which followed, the club decided to co-operate with the Galion Merchants association in sponsoring a Christmas window display contest.

Harriet Campbell was named general chairman of the committee to work with the merchants, and her sub-chairmen will be Hilda Miller and Mrs. Kenneth Petri, while Alice Plack was chosen to be one of the ballot judges. Anna Mae Campbell was named to represent the club at a meeting to assist in purchasing uniforms for the high school band. The club also voted to contribute a sum of money to a worthy citizen at Christmas time, and to give money for the war sufferers in China.

The evening was concluded when Mrs. Fred Zuber, dressed as Santa Claus, distributed the Christmas gifts. Chairmen in charge of the party were Jean Leavenworth and Martha Albrecht.

On Dec. 19, a Christmas party will be held by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Market Street Methodist church, it was planned at the monthly meeting, Thursday. Senator Injects Some Humor Into Debate on Taxes

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The new national defense tax bill was before the senate and the New Deal senators were tense when Republican Senator Danaher from Connecticut arose during debate on a committee amendment They hear him say:

"While I usually take everything that comes from the committee on Finance without dotting an 'i' or crossing a 't', I point out to the chairman that before we vote on the amendment I do not quite know what to do when there is no 't'. If the chairman will look on page 99, in line 1, he will find the word 'written' with a 't' missing. I ask unanimous consent to insert it."

The senators turned to the page, saw the typographical error and smiled So did the spectators in the galleries

PURSE STRINGS SHIFT

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(U P)—The old adage about women controlling the purse strings does not hold true in connection with purchase of automobile license plates, the California department of motor vehicles has found. Although more than one-third of the 3,500,000 persons licensed to drive automobiles in California are women, fewer than 20 per cent of the license plates are purchased by the fair sex.

New Laugh Film.

"Keep 'em Flying," the new Bud Abbott and Lou Costello laugh film, opens Saturday at the Ohio with a cast that includes Martha Raye, Carol Bruce, William Gargan and Dick Foran. The two comedians play "grease monkeys" in an air school, the Misses Raye and Bruce are cast as U. S O. hostesses, while Gargan plays a civilian flying instructor, and Foran, a stunt flyer. Air thrills highlight the picture including a wild ride with Abbott and Costello in a runaway plane Some new hit tunes are introduced by Martha Raye and Miss Bruce. Arthur Lubin directed

R. A. F. Bombing.

The first documentary film recording the answer of Britain's R. A. F. to Hitler is incorporated in "Target for Tonight," a Crown Film Unit production made with the cooperation of the Royal Air Force and released by Warner Brothers. Opening Saturday at the Madison the picture shows the actual bombing of a German sector by the R. A. F., more specifically by "Freddie" the Wellington bomber and its crew of six. The men and planes appearing in the film have all been active participants in the air war against Germany. "You Belong to Me," costarring Barbara Stanwyck and Henry Fonda, is the co-attraction.

Kildare Story.

"Dr Kildare's Wedding Day," featuring the regular "leads" of the Kildare series including Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Laraine Day is playing at the Ritz. "Songs and Saddles," Gene Austin's musical western, is the second attraction

Technicolor Musical.

"Down Argentine Way," Technicolor musical starring Don Ameche Betty Grable, Carmen Miranda and the Nichols brothers, opens Saturday at the Park Co-featured is Hal Roach's streamlined comedy "Broadway Limited," with Victor McLaglen, Dennis O'Keefe, Marjorie Patsy Kelly and Zasu Pitts The plot centers in a publicity stunt involving a glamorous film star and a kidnaping that takes place simultaneously with the stunt Comic Strip Heroine.

"Tillie the Toiler," based on the comic strip by the same name, is showing at the Majestic with Kay Harris and William Trancy in the leading roles Tim Holt's "Riding the Wind," is the second attraction

Burning Rubber Tires Bring Out The Gas Masks

LONDON—(INS)—"Gas!"

So ran the cry through the town of Redlynch, near Salisbury. The entire population of 1,227 began twitching uncomfortably; eyes smarted; headaches and sickness followed.

The official gas warning was sounded. Wardens ran from house to house with their warning rattles. Gas masks were hastily put on.

ARP officials had given way to public opinion. Though they knew it was no war gas, they could not detect the source. And, anyway, "masks on" seemed the safest policy.

So Redlynch stayed gas-masked—wondering.

Came the anti-climax a few hours later when one of the villagers was discovered burning old rubber tires on a nearby rubbish heap.

Reveals Ancient Greece Had WPA Theater Project

BERKELEY, Cal.—(INS)—Greece had its New Deal during the Golden Age of Pericles, and one of the outstanding Periclean WPA projects was the Odeum, the famous Greek music hall.

So says Dr. James Turney Allen, professor of the University Press dealing with the Periclean reconstruction of the theater.

Dr. Allen declares that the unique structure apparently had figured prominently in a pre-election campaign, exciting a lively curiosity and many a jibe from the political opposition to Pericles' New Deal.

"There can be no doubt that Thucydides and his crowd, who according to Plutarch bitterly assailed Pericles on the ground of squandering state monies, included this building on their list of grievances," Dr. Allen writes.

"We can almost hear them railing against its Oriental appearance as a glaring example of mad extravagance. But in vain. Thucydides lost and was sent into exile. The year was 444 or 443 B. C.

"The Odeum was a roofed-over theater in which musicians and poets performed for the public, and participated in contests. It was later copied in Rome."

FILE ESTATE VALUATIONS

Leo Avington, Mansfield insurance representative, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Agnes Avington, who were killed in a Pennsylvania train wreck Nov. 9 at Dunkirk, O., left estates with a combined value of $24,433, inventories filed in Richland county probate court showed today.

Avington's estate was valued at $17,341 and Mrs. Avington's at $7,092. Court clerks said most of the estates represented insurance policies.

LODGE WOMEN PRESENT BOOK, 'TIME TO SPEAK'

Gift From Mansfield Women of Moose Included Among New Volumes at Library.

Women of the Moose have presented the Public Library with a copy of "A Time to Speak," by Archibald MacLeish.

The gift-edition is now on display with a number of other new titles including "My Last Million Readers," Emile Henry Gauvreau's account of his own journalistic career.

Full of dramatic experiences and unusual contrasts, Gauvreau's book traces his career from the time he turned from the conservative Hartford Courant to a different type of newspaper and became instrumental in launching McFadden's Evening Graphic. Later he edited the New York Daily Mirror.

COUNTRY SCHOOLMA'AM by Della T. Lutes is at once a delightful slice of autobiography and an authentic picture of life in the easy 80's when the author, at sixteen, became a country schoolma'am. She was not very sure of her arithmetic, and she learned fully as much as she taught in the two years of which she tells. And of course, Mrs. Lutes couldn't write about her early years without frequent mention of things to eat! Remember "Country Kitchen?"

LANDS OF NEW NEIGHBORS by Hans Christian Adamson is remarkable in at least two respects: it gives in one volume a concise and complete history of every country in the Western Hemisphere; and it will be used as the basis for a series of coast-to-coast and international programs, broadcast weekly by CBS during 1941-42. An ever-fascinating pageant of the flesh-and-blood people whose lives and deeds carved a New World out of a wilderness unfolds through the pages of this very readable book.

OTHER NON-FICTION: We Have With Us Tonight by Sumner; Out of the People by Priestley; Book of Maggie Owen by Owen; Education for Death by Ziemer; England Was An Island Once by Thane; First Papers by Gumpert; Effective Advertising by Hepner; U. S. Camera for 1942; Manual of Home Portraiture by Bill.

The voyager of Olive Higgins Prouty's new novel, NOW, VOYAGER, was Charlotte Vale, spinster daughter of a proud Boston family. While recuperating from a serious illness, Charlotte was sent on a cruise along with a new wardrobe and some startling changes in personal appearance worked by a beauty parlor. While on her trip Charlotte discovers some surprising things about herself, and her belated romance completes her cure.

SCARLETT PETTICOAT by Ward Jones is based on the struggle between the newly united States and the British for the gigantic territories of the northwest—yet it is the story itself which dominates the book. It recreates the coming of the first white woman to that region, one Jane Barnes, a barmaid from Portsmouth in Massachusetts, and there she meets the sober, earnest (and to Jane, very attractive) frontiersman, Alexander Henry. A colorful and lusty story which vividly portrays the early conquest of the northwest.

In his new book, THE FIGHTING LITTLES, Booth Tarkington has created an American family that is strongly reminiscent of the Schofield family while exhibiting a wealth of amusing characteristics that are unmistakably its own. The Little family is made up of Mr. and Mrs. Little—eighteen-year-old Goody, and fifteen-year-old Filmer. All are engaging characters in a story of adolescent love, paternal sufferings and general domestic friction.

Other Fiction.

A LEAF IN THE STORM by Lin Yutang: ALL THAT GLITTERS by Keyes; BIG SNOW by Fetzer.

In his book, YOUNG MAN OF CARACAS, Mr. Ybarra, foreign correspondent and radio commentator, recalls his early days in Venezuela. His mother was a Bostonian—his father a dashing young South American general—and he gives an intimate picture not only of his family life but of South American attitudes and customs. Told with great gusto and good humor, and packed with anecdotes.

As Central Ohio Traffic Club Staged Christmas Frolic Here

These pictures snapped by The News-Journal photographer at the Central Ohio Traffic club's annual Christmas party last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel show some of the transportation and industrial leaders who joined in the fun. In the upper left photo, left to right, are James E. Young, freight and passenger agent for the Pennsylvania railroad in Mansfield; Mrs. Young; Mrs. Clarence D. Smith and Clarence D. Smith, Cleveland, president of the club. Smith is traveling freight agent for the L. and N. railroad. At top right are Mrs. Russell L. Alger, Mansfield, wife of the secretary-treasurer of the club; C. H. Hartshorn, Toledo, who was toastmaster at the dinner, and Mrs. Hartshorn. Hartshorn is general agent of the Delaware, Lackawanna, and Western railroad. Shown in the lower picture, left to right, are E. B. Hankey, general freight agent of the Pennsylvania railroad at Pittsburgh; William Morse, vice president of the Wierton Steel company, Pittsburgh, and R. H. Miller, general freight agent, Pennsylvania railroad, Pittsburgh.

Veteran Voter Discovers He's Not a Citizen

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (INS) — James I. Compton, 76, of Riverside, has voted for every president since Benjamin Harrison and has assumed full citizenship responsibilities for the last 50 years—until recently when he discovered he wasn't a citizen.

Compton said all his family believed his father had taken out his second papers after coming here 71 years ago and was a citizen of the United States. His younger brother discovered the father had only taken out his first papers and that the children were aliens.

As soon as this fact was verified, Compton and has brother immediately registered as aliens, and took the preliminary steps to become citizens.

"It's pretty tough," Compton said, shaking his head, "we always thought we were citizens, and now after 71 years in this country, I find I'm an alien.

"One thing, though, I've got a pretty good record. I've never been in any kind of trouble, never been arrested or anything like that. Maybe that will help out when I come up for citizenship."

NEED CARETAKERS

"A Kiss for the Cook"
in these thrifty HAM ideas

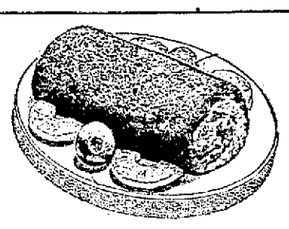
LEARN THE Thriftier CUTS OF MEAT

The fine flavor of ham and a little imagination can do wonders in making a thrifty meal a really exciting one.

The shank and butt end of the ham have the same tasty appeal and the same B vitamins as the choicest center slices.

Here are two thrifty yet always welcome ways to put ham on the table.

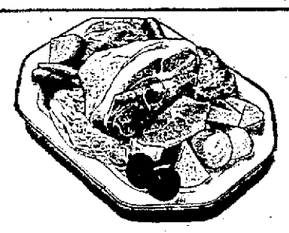
"MEDLEY OF MEAT RECIPES"—40 pages of recipes, menus and garnishes for meat. Send 10 cents to Dept. N, American Meat Institute, Chicago.



A SOUTHERN SECRET IN FLAVOR

Ham and Sweet Potato Roll—¾ lb. ground ham, ½ lb. ground pork, ½ cup cracker crumbs, 1 egg, ¾ cup milk, pepper. Combine, and spread on waxed paper to ½-in. thickness, making rectangle about 6 x 10 in. Spread with 2 cups seasoned mashed sweet potatoes; roll like jelly roll. Bake in dripping pan 1½ hrs. in moderate oven (350° F.)

Try ground ham also in patties or creamed on toast.



A NEW ENGLAND FAVORITE

Old-Fashioned Boiled Dinner (Always hits the spot with men). Place a 2 to 3-lb. ham shank in a large kettle. Cover with water and simmer for about 2 hrs. Add 6 medium-sized peeled potatoes, 6 scraped carrots, 6 medium-sized peeled onions and cook covered for 10 min. Salt broth to taste, then add 1 small head of cabbage cut in 6 wedge-shaped pieces. Continue cooking for 20 min. or until vegetables are tender.

HAM IS A RICH NATURAL SOURCE OF THE B VITAMINS

Even the thriftiest cuts of meat contain these vitamins as well as important minerals (iron, copper, phosphorus); all are rich in complete, high quality proteins.

Gives Formula For Counting Ground Speed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — (INS) — "Take the speed denoted by the speedometer, add half that speed and you have the number of feet traveled per second."

That is the easiest way to figure your ground speed, according to Todd Stoops, secretary-manager of the Hoosier Motor Club.

The automobile speedometer records the miles traveled but it always leaves the motorist with hazy ideas about the feet per second he is traveling. This ignorance and haziness causes many accidents, Stoops said. He advocates all drivers know how many feet they are going per second.

The formula does sound simple and it is within two per cent of being correct on every speed. For example, say you were traveling at a speed of 60 miles per hour. That 60, plus half of it, which is 30, gives you a total of 90 feet you are traveling per second. The actual feet per second you cover is only 87.96, but 90 is close enough to give you a clear idea of your ground coverage.

DOCTOR DIES

Plymouth Optometrist Taken By Death Today.

PLYMOUTH—Dr. Alvin Loose, 78, optometrist here for a long number of years, died this morning at the family home in this village.

Survivors include his wife, Effie; and one daughter, Mrs. Nelson Talmage, of Mt. Gilead.

The body was taken to the Barkdull funeral home in Shelby. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

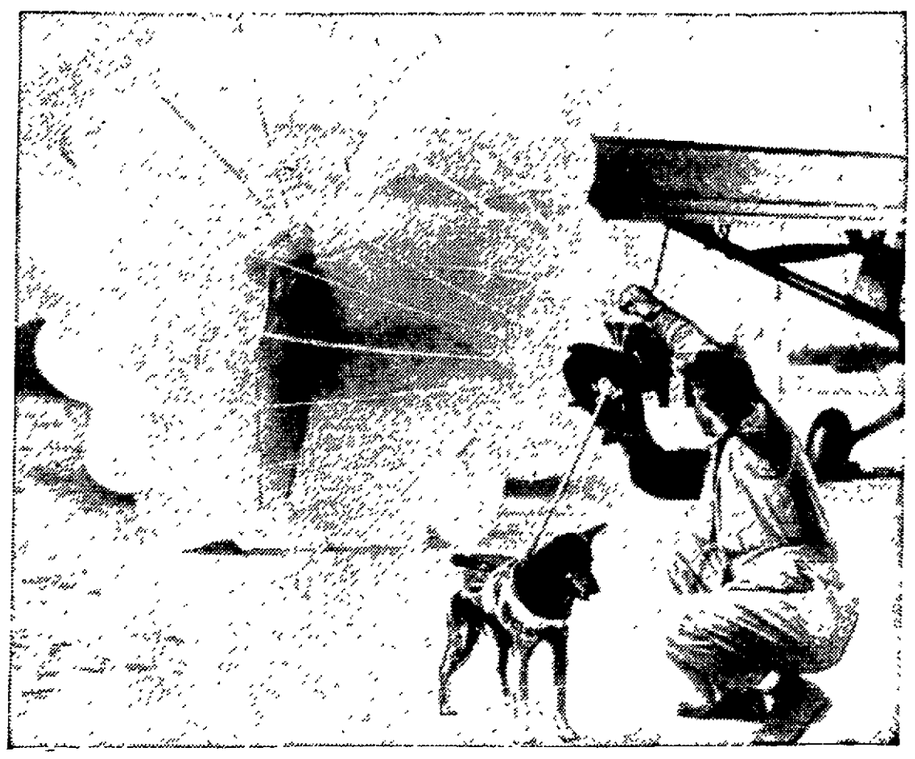
Private Trixie's a High-Flying Dog, Sir!



There's one private in the 16th observation squadron at Lawson field, Fort Benning, Ga., who never is assigned to K. P. duty. That's Private Trixie, a full-fledged soldier in the United States army despite her sex and her canine antecedents Staff Sergeant John W. Patrick is helping Trixie to show off the parachute she wears whenever she goes up for a spin or a spiral. She already has a record of 15 officially accredited hours in the air.

It's deep-rooted and ever-present and universal...this craving for the news. We give it direct expression every time we greet a friend with "What's new?" We let it have full reign when we reach for the daily newspaper.

What's new? What did the school board decide last night? Did Mrs. Taylor get her divorce? How was the concert? What's going on in Washington? London? Berlin? Moscow? Tokyo? Rome? Who was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary? What did the raiding bombers do today? Did copper go up or down? Who won the game?

What's new?...in politics, business, foreign affairs... in society, sports, fashions...in music, art and the theatre? We want to know...because we are curious by nature, because we like to be well-informed...and because we realize that each day's events may affect our welfare and our happiness.

Only in newspapers can we satisfy this constant hunger for the news. Only in newspapers can we get a quick, complete and accurate account of happenings at home and abroad.

And today, when the news is so vitally important to all of us, we read the newspaper more eagerly, more thoroughly than ever before. That's why the newspaper, which has always been a profitable medium for advertisers, is a more profitable medium today than ever before.

WEIDNER'S BUDGET PLAN SAVES YOU TIME and MONEY!

Just 3 Easy Steps—Count 'Em

1.

Check this list of cars and select the car and monthly payment that you think will best suit you.

1937 Buick Special 4-Dr.	$23.71
1937 Olds 3-Pass. Coupe	$23.29
1937 Pontiac Deluxe 4-Dr.	$23.29
1937 Plymouth 2-Dr. Sedan	$23.29
1937 Ford 4-Dr.	$19.65
1936 Pontiac Coupe	$19.65
1935 LaSalle 4-Dr.	$18.55
1936 Pontiac 2-Dr.	$16.98
1936 Lincoln Zephyr 4-Dr.	$16.98
1936 Ford 2-Dr.	$16.19
1935 Chevrolet 4-Dr. Sedan	$16.10

2.

After you have selected the car that will best suit your needs and pocketbook your next step is to pay a visit to Weidner's heated used car showroom. There you can see the car you have in mind and fully discuss the terms of payment with one of the salesmen present.

3.

Then all that remains for you to do is to make the usual down payment (your present car will probably cover this) and drive away in the car of your choice. You can rest assured that you will have trouble-free driving because every car is thoroughly reconditioned and covered with a written guarantee.

No Added Charges! Monthly Payment Includes All Taxes - Title - Insurance and Carrying Charges!

CLOUDY NEWS PICTURE ENDS MARKET RISE

Commitments Lightened as Traders Await Japan's Reply To Demands.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Recovery trends waned further in today's stock market as tax selling became more urgent and the general news picture remained cloudy.

At a speedy opening fractional declines were posted in virtually all groups. Dealings slowed near the second hour but few comebacks were in evidence.

Commitments were lightened in some cases, brokers said, pending publication of Japan's reply to Washington's demands regarding far eastern problems.

Merchandising shares came in for further study as the department of commerce forecast Christmas retail sales this year would hit a record peak at around $5.500,000,000, an increase of 16 per cent over the December aggregate last year.

The department explained, however, that about half the year-to-year expansion actually represented higher prices and it was thought that the upturn in units sold would be in the neighborhood of 5 per cent.

Girl Testifies Police Frequented Disorderly House

YOUNGSTOWN —(INS)— Uniformed police made daily visits to a disorderly house in suburban Campbell, Mahoning county authorities had been told today by a 16-year-old girl, who said she was abducted and forced to work in the house. She identified photographs of the officers she said visited the place.

Sheriff's deputies arrested five persons, including the proprietors, Anna and Frank Fetch, to whom the girl turned over $150, she said. They are charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The girl told authorities she was in a bar when a man told her he would get her a job doing housework, then took her to the Campbell place. She was not there when the house was raided, having been taken away when her picture appeared in a newspaper as a missing girl.

The girl's abductor, a paroled Ohio penitentiary convict, also was under arrest.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

The story of bears and Indian treasure has long been a favorite wth child audiences. "Uncle Tom Andy Bill," is Charles Major's conception of such a story and it is included among the new children's books at the Mansfield Public library.

UNCLE TOM ANDY BILL; a story of bears and Indian treasure, by Charles Major—The author believes these stories he heard as a child were really true, and if they were then Uncle Tom Andy Bill had a very interesting and exciting boyhood.

THE BOY SCOUTS' BOOK OF ADVENTUROUS YOUTH, edited by Franklin K. Mathiews—According to the custom of the Boy Scouts of America a yearbook of stories for scouts is published each year. Each group of stories are of a certain type and this year all the stories are true—based on the adventures of real boys past and present. Boys of junior high age will welcome those tales.

"Doc" Says:

It's The Biggest Robe Display We've Ever Worn . . .

Why did we buy so many? Because we didn't have enough last Christmas and Mrs. Mansfield had to settle for something else at the last minute.

We promised ourselves we'd outdo our best this Christmas and here they are. If you are giving a robe . . . don't miss them.
